Reds Offer Own Truce Proposal

Central Ordered To Continue Two Trains to Oneonta

Petition Also Is Denied for Ulster Park Depot Closing; Rehearing Is Sought

Albany, June 4 (AP)—The Public Service Commission has ordered the New York Central railroad to continue operating its last two passenger trains between Kingston and Oneonta.

The PSC yesterday denied the road's request for permission to halt the daily service on its Catskill Mountain branch, but the Central will be free to submit more evidence at the end of the summer.

The railroad had sought to discontinue service as of April 10 along the 104-mile route. It was ordered to maintain service at least until June 20, pending a decision. Yesterday's action continues the runs indefinitely.

At a public hearing, the road contended it spent $91,000 and took in about $54,700 on the service last year. It proposed to cut off mail service and handle express and less-than-carload freight by truck.

Officials of Kingston and Stamford and businessmen from Glenford, Stamford and Woodstock declared that the economic well-being of the area would suffer if the trains were discontinued.

No Ulster Park Closing

Albany, June 4 (Special)—Ruling that no sufficient reason was advanced, the Public Service Commission today denied a petition of New York Central railroad for a rehearing on a recent commission order in which permission was refused the company to close its station at Ulster Park in Ulster county.

The commission's original order was based on the fact that evidence submitted by the company at the original hearing was incomplete, contradictory in some respects and did not provide a

Allies Get Recess to Consider Plan, Meet Saturday

Panmunjom, June 4 (AP) — The Communists reportedly submitted today a counter proposal to the "final" Allied terms for a truce in Korea.

The Reds offered a lengthy statement of their position at a 73-minute secret session today that brought delegates together for the first time in nine days.

Contents of the Communist statement were kept secret.

The official spokesman for the United Nations command, Lt. Col. Milton Herr, would not confirm or deny the reported counter-proposal.

No Formal Plan, Report

The report came from a source close to the negotiations.

However, another source said later the Communists did not advance a formal counterproposal as such, although their statements amounted to one. This source said the Reds presented their position at length and asked explanations of some provisions of the Allies' May 25 proposals.

Rumors grew in both Munsan and Seoul that the negotiators were close to agreement, but there was nothing from official quarters to support them.

(The Communist Peiping radio, heard in Tokyo, gave no indication of any Red move within the conference. It noted only that the session was held in secret).

Recess Is Obtained

The Allies asked for and got a recess until Saturday, stirring speculation that a Red counter-proposal would be sent to the U. S. and other Allies for consideration. The Saturday meeting is set for 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday EST.)

The Communists had been expected to answer an Allied "now or never" proposal on prisoner exchange submitted May 25.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il talked an hour — all but the last 13 minutes of the session.

Tax Action On Profits Is Forecast

Excess Levy Extension Will Come Before Expiration, Is View of Martin

Washington, June 4 (AP)—House Speaker Martin (R.-Mass.) said today he believes Congress will extend the excess profits tax before it expires at the end of this month.

Martin made the statement at the White House after a meeting between President Eisenhower and congressional leaders.

He told reporters:

"I'm sure an overwhelming number of members of the House want the excess profits tax extended. I also believe the Ways and Means Committee members will give the House that opportunity."

The excess profits tax bill, a key point in Eisenhower's financial program, has been bottled up so far by the Ways and Means Committee whose chairman, Rep. Reed (R.-NY), wants the tax to die July 1.

Reluctant Okay

The discussion at the White House came while the President waited to find out whether his "businessmen's administration" can count on the support of business men when his policies pinch their pocketbooks, his advisers were betting that business would come through on that point by giving a reluctant okay to a request for a six-months extension on the excess profits levy.

The two largest business organizations, the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, both firmly on record opposing the profits levy, were restudying their policy. Both were due to disclose their decisions before nightfall.

Approached by Two

The organizations were approached by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Undersecretary Marion B. Folsom, it developed yesterday, following Eisenhower's recommendation for postponement of some scheduled tax reductions.

Humphrey's activity drew a warning against "lobbying" yesterday from Reed.

And Rep. Mills (D.-Ark.) commented that treasury officials "may well" have violated anti-lobbying laws which bar federal officials from spending government funds to influence legislation, even indirectly, by means other than appearances before congressional groups.

Asks They Find Out

Mills demanded that the committeee "find out who in the administration has been talking to whom in an effort to keep them from appearing * * * and freely expressing their views." Reed added: "Further, if I find out they have been violating the lobbying law, I will turn the matter over to the Department of Justice."

Humphrey denied having tried

Final Decision Will Rest With PSC on Cost Issue

Two Railroads Might Have to Pay Half; Structural Maintenance Also Involved

The Washington avenue viaduct might remain a local traffic problem even after the New York State Thruway is opened south of the Onteora Trail (Route 28) authoritative sources indicated today.

Even if the structure is found to be part of an arterial route as the result of a survey now in progress, the final decision as to change or no change will rest with the Public Service Commission.

Available interpretation today of a law which charges the two railroads overpassed by the structure with 50 per cent of structural and maintenance responsibility, it was indicated, could be another delaying factor in eliminating the traffic bottleneck.

B. D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent, and chairman of the thruway authority, following a conference earlier this year with Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan, ordered a study of the viaduct problem to determine if it could be designated as an arterial route.

If it is considered part of a main state route the state could contribute to whatever change is to be made, but even if the state moves in with financial aid, the railroads under existing laws, may be required to pay 50 per cent of the cost of either eliminating the structure or building a new one.

No Early Action Foreseen

One source, familiar with state procedure, today said he saw no possibility of early action toward elimination of the traffic bottleneck. Thruway traffic will continue to go on and off the structure for some time after the express highway is opened south of Route 28, and this, undoubtedly, will lead to increased traffic congestion in the uptown area of the city.

Both city and county officials expressed concern with the viaduct problem in conjunction with thruway traffic, and even before thruway work began in the area, officials and the public complained that it is a serious traffic hazard and one that grows more serious

Biggest A-Bomb Flames 2 Minutes Over Nevada Desert

Weapon Had No Less Than 50 Kilotons—Blast Is Final One in Series

Las Vegas, Nev., June 4 (AP)—The biggest atom bomb ever exploded in the United States flamed for more than two minutes in the pre-dawn sky today over Nevada proving ground.

The fireball boiled for more than 30 seconds, indicating an intensity twice that of any previous bomb or device detonated in the desert.

The 20-kiloton Hiroshima bomb had a 10-second fireball.

Dropped from an extremely high-flying B-36, the unprecedented A-bomb flashed across the entire horizon and bathed the desert in a ghostly white light for a least five seconds. Then it formed into a brilliant golden fireball.

Not Less Than 50 Kilotons

The power of this amazing weapon was probably not less than 50 kilotons. The Atomic Energy Commission has previously detonated three devices at Yucca flat that have had an intensity greater than the so-called nominal or Hiroshima bomb.

Today's blast, 11th and final of the spring series, probably compared favorably with some of the huge explosives reported at the Pacific proving grounds at Eniwetok.

The explosion went off exactly at 4:15 a. m. (6:15 a. m. EST.). The flash was seen in San Francisco, 600 miles away and in Los Angeles 250 miles distant.

Was Not Felt

Strangely, however, the shock which was reported very strong at the AEC control point, was not felt in Las Vegas or by observers on Mt. Charleston, 45 miles from the test site.

The fire in the cloud was visible to mountain observers for two minutes and 20 seconds before it faded. Veteran atomic reporters agreed that this far outshone any of the 30 previous blasts in Nevada.

The burst appeared to be at a height of more than 2,500 feet. The device was dropped from a bomber at an altitude of probably 39,000 or 40,000 feet.

This is calculated on the basis of the AEC announcement that it

Eisenhower Tells on TV Of Issues

Four Cabinet Members Also Are Heard in 'Family Circle' Talk to Nation

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Communist and United Nations commands were reported today to be very close to agreement on a Korean war armistice.

Officially, there was the closest secrecy but it was clear that in high quarters of the government there was very strong confidence that agreement on a truce was at hand.

There was a notable increase of optimism among officials and some indication the latest Red response could be considered as virtual acceptance of the UN proposals of 10 days ago.

According to this interpretation, the only matters left to be negotiated are relatively minor differences.

The Red reply to the UN plan for dealing with the deadlock over disposition of prisoners of was was received by the government this morning. The Reds presented it to the UN command at Panmunjom last night, Washington time.

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower inaugurated a new era of presidential contact with the people last night—pledging on a "family circle" telecast there would be no appeasement of communism and "no risk of a general war."

Surrounded by four members of his official family, and inviting his millions of television watchers to think of themselves as fellow-dwellers in "the national house," Eisenhower gave these assurances in a precedent-setting White House report to the nation:

"We are going to keep our temper; we are going to build our strength."

"We are not going to cripple this nation and we are going specifically to keep up its air power."

"Our effort is to secure peace—and prosperity in peace."

So, in easy conversational style, and passing the ball repeatedly to his cabinet aides, Eisenhower met head-on the accusations aired in Congress only a few hours before that his air force budget cuts are imperilling the nation's security.

New Dimension Given

He did more than that; by introducing the TV presidential panel program, with free technical advice from some of the highest-priced advertising experts in the business, Eisenhower gave

Taft Denies Saying 'Go It Alone' in Speech

Refuses Further Discussion at Present; Son Read Paper

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today he did not use the words "go it alone" in his May 26 discussion of Korean policy to which President Eisenhower took exception.

Taft made this comment to reporters at the White House on leaving a legislative conference of the President and Republican Congressional leaders. Taft has been hospitalized for treatment of a hip ailment and it was his first meeting with Eisenhower since their public policy disagreement.

The Ohioan refused to discuss the matter further, but said he might make a statement on one later, probably tomorrow. He said there was no mention of it at today's White House session.

Taft's statement to which the President took exception were in a speech prepared for a Cincinnati audience.

Son Read Speech

His son read the speech for him because Taft was in the hospital. In the speech, Taft said:

"I believe we might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean War is concerned. I think we should do our best now to negotiate this truce, and if we fail, then let England and our other Allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

Taft also said: "I believe we might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the East and reserve to ourselves a completely free hand."

At Eisenhower's news conference last Thursday, the President was asked whether he shared Taft's view that this country might as well forget the UN as far as the Korean war is concerned.

Eisenhower replied, "no" and went on to say the United States needed friends and allies and that if it attempted to go it alone in one region it would have to do so everywhere else.

'Didn't Use Words'

In asking Taft about the "go it alone" comment today, the reporter said the phrase had been used editorially. The reporter did not specifically refer to the President.

"I didn't use the word 'go it alone,'" Taft said.

He refused to elaborate and said "I have no more comment" even when asked, "do you still stand on your speech?"

Taft is getting about on crutches. He visited the Senate yesterday for the first time since his hospitalization.

Polio Cases Reported

Washington, June 4 (AP)—There were 198 cases of infantile paralysis reported over the nation last week. They pushed this year's total to 2,569, or more than 25 per cent greater than the 2,047 up to this time last year the Public Health Service said today.

Former Store Head Held on Indictment

Anthony J. Albany, 25, Accused on Stolen Property Count

Anthony James Albany, 25-year-old former manager of the Grand Union meat and vegetable store at 292 Wall street, was arrested in Catskill on Wednesday on an accusation of buying and receiving stolen property.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office and Detective Frank Sammons made the arrest, executing a bench warrant signed by County Judge John M. Cashin on the basis of a sealed indictment returned by the grand jury on Monday.

To Be Arraigned June 9

Albany, also known as Tony Albany, gave his address as 670 Broadway when he was booked at the sheriffs office Wednesday afternoon to await arraignment in county court, scheduled for Tuesday morning, June 9.

It was reported unofficially that Albany, who is no longer employed by the Grand Union chain, was starting a sporting goods store in Catskill. The charges, however, concern alleged occurences while he was managing the local grocery store.

Because the indictment remains sealed until the arraingment on Tuesday, further details of the charge could not be revealed today.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 2: Net budget receipts $117,398,520.86. Budget expenditures $264,586,577.06. Cash balance $2,455,389,922.31. Customs receipts for month $4,944,059.61. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $55,662,279,632.18. Budget expenditures fiscal year $67,349,287,355.59. Budget deficit $11,687,007,723.41. Total debt $266,018,516,481.15. Decrease under previous day $12,791,464.88. Gold assets $22,536,526,638.87.

Williamson Sent To Bellevue Ward

New York, June 3 (Special)—Robert Williamson, 28, of New York, who was arrested in Kingson May 18 for a reported robbery in New York, was ordered to Bellevue Hospital for psychiatric observation by Magistrate J. Irwin Shapiro in Felony Court here today.

Williamson is accused of holding up Mary Costello and Helen McInerney, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company cashiers in a Broadway office building here May 5. According to police, he fled with $7,500 cash that the women were taking to the bank.

The defendant was picked up in Kingston at the home of a woman friend.

Reports Revolutionary Atomic Fuel 'Breeding'

Atlantic City, June 4 (AP)—The United States today announced the successful "breeding" of atomic fuel—that is, the production of at least as much, or more, new fissicnable material as is burned up in the process of making it.

The development is one of the most revolutionary in the entire atomic program. It was disclosed by Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission in a speech prepared for the Edison Electric Institute.

Dean cautioned his audience of 3,000 electric and power men not to assume that economic power from atomic energy is here. But he called the achievement a milestone of progress and said it "holds out the promise of making a civilian atomic power industry even more feasible and attractive in the long range than it has hitherto appeared to be."

The process, Dean said, was worked out at the AEC's reactor testing station at Arco, Idaho. He illustrated it this way:

"I would like to ask you to imagine a world in which only one hundred gallons of gasoline existed. When that gasoline was used up, gasoline would forever be gone from the earth. But let us imagine that we could make gasoline out of water by burning the gasoline we had in the presence of water. Let us say, for example, that by burning up our 100 gallons of gasoline we could change 90 gallons of water into new gasoline, and that thereafter we could, by burning gasoline in the presence of water, always make new gasoline equivalent to 90 per cent of that which we burned. By such a process we would quite obviously greatly stretch out our supply of gasoline, but we could hardly expect to stretch it out indefinitely, for we would always be making a little less gasoline than we consumed.

"Ultimately we would run out of gasoline before we ran out of water, and all the rest of the water in the world would be useless to us so far as gasoline production was concerned.

"But to pursue our over-simplified analogy, still further, now let us assume that we succeeded in developing a way by which we could produce 100 or more gallons of new gasoline from water for every 100 gallons we burned. Suddenly we would have made it possible for ourselves to change gradually all of the water in the world into gasoline. Our gasoline shortage would have vanished."

Dean said that essentially is what has happened at Arco.

Portentially, the achievement opens the way to making use of the world's supply of Uranium-238, which is 140 times more plentiful than the fissionable U-235, as a source of fuel for power or for

Reds Throw Back Assaults By ROKs; Missions Flown

Seoul, June 4 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Reds today sledgehammered back in bloody hand-to-hand fighting all but one of seven South Korean counter-attacks for key allied hill positions captured by the Communists.

Units of four ROK divisions smashed against Chinese clinging to five outposts on Finger and Bloody Ridges on the east-central front and North Koreans on portions of Luke the Gook's Castle and Anchor Hill in the east.

One outpost was recaptured on Bloody Ridge.

All other counter-attacks were hurled back, and at Luke's Castle and Anchor Ridge North Korean Reds wound up a day of bitter close-quarter fighting in better positions than before.

The UN command said two beefed up Chinese battalions — perhaps 2,500 men—smashed into South Koreans who captured one outpost on Finger Ridge and drove the ROKs off again.

North Koreans wrested the crest of Anchor Hill from ROK infantrymen who drove the Reds off the hill earlier in the day. An Eighth Army briefing officer said that at dusk Communist and South Korean troops faced each other from opposite sides of the dish-shaped crest.

Counter-attacking South Koreans of the 12th Division lost added ground in desperate see-

Defense Tries to Shake Story Of Officer at Cascio's Trial

Taegu, Korea, June 4 (AP)—Defense attorneys tried hard today to shake the story of an officer who testified he turned over—under orders—a secret document on the U. S. Sabre jet fighter to S/Sgt. Guiseppe Cascio, 34 accused of conspiring to sell it to the Communists.

During the cross-examination, Lt. William L. Murphy of Drexel Hill, Pa., testified that Cascio referred to "Communists", "spy rings" and "Reds" in discussing plans with him. Murphy was an air force postal officer at Cascio's air base.

He testified this morning that a document introduced as evidence was the same one handed to him in Tokyo by a man accused as an accomplice of Cascio. Murphy said air force investigators told him to give the document to Cascio and said he did so the next day in Korea.

The trial judge, Lt. Col. Joseph G. Stulb, Jr., of New Orleans ruled this morning against a defense contention that the document was taken "by illegal search and seizure" from a Korean house here in which Cascio was living with a Korean woman.

The document was taken from a locked footlocker in the house when Cascio was arrested last Sept. 22.

Cascio and his girl friend, Miss Sang Myun Hee, testified Wednesday that arresting officers took Cascio and the footlocker from the house without a search warrant. The prosecution contended successfully that the actual seizure of the footlocker was made by a Korean detective in the raiding party, making it legal under Korean laws also.

The general court martial of the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., native is in its third day.

Murphy said he received the Sabre jet document at the Ambassador Hotel in Tokyo last Sept. 8 from S/Sgt. John P. Jones who was stationed in the office of the director of intelligence, Far East Air Forces headquarters.

Jones has since been charged in the case, judged insane by a military board, and returned to the United States.

Murphy, who said he discussed means of disposing of the document with Cascio, had testified previously that Cascio told him he planned to locate Communist agents in the Taegu area and sell them classified military information.

A letter from Cascio to Jones in Tokyo, dated Sept. 14, 1952, also was introduced by the prosecution.

Murphy said he was present when Cascio wrote the letter, which said, "we are all set for a jolly reunion with our Yankee friends." Murphy said the word 'Yankee" was a code word for North Koreans."

Second Lt. Charles B. Slack, of Pitman, N. J., an air force personnel officer, testified that Cascio's record showed no clearance that would have permitted Cascio to handle secret classified information.

According to this interpretation, the only matters left to be negotiated are relatively minor differences.

The Red reply to the UN plan for dealing with the deadlock over disposition of prisoners of was was received by the government this morning. The Reds presented it to the UN command at Panmunjom last night, Washington time.

Washington, June 4 (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower inaugurated a new era of presidential contact with the people last night—pledging on a "family circle" telecast there would be no appeasement of communism and "no risk of a general war."

Surrounded by four members of his official family, and inviting his millions of television watchers to think of themselves as fellow-dwellers in "the national house," Eisenhower gave these assurances in a precedent-setting White House report to the nation:

"We are going to keep our temper; we are going to build our strength."

"We are not going to cripple this nation and we are going specifically to keep up its air power."

"Our effort is to secure peace—and prosperity in peace."

So, in easy conversational style, and passing the ball repeatedly to his cabinet aides, Eisenhower met head-on the accusations aired in Congress only a few hours before that his air force budget cuts are imperilling the nation's security.

New Dimension Given

He did more than that; by introducing the TV presidential panel program, with free technical advice from some of the highest-priced advertising experts in the business, Eisenhower gave

Taft Denies Saying 'Go It Alone' in Speech

Refuses Further Discussion at Present; Son Read Paper

Washington, June 4 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today he did not use the words "go it alone" in his May 26 discussion of Korean policy to which President Eisenhower took exception.

Taft made this comment to reporters at the White House on leaving a legislative conference of the President and Republican Congressional leaders. Taft has been hospitalized for treatment of a hip ailment and it was his first meeting with Eisenhower since their public policy disagreement.

The Ohioan refused to discuss the matter further, but said he might make a statement on one later, probably tomorrow. He said there was no mention of it at today's White House session.

Taft's statement to which the President took exception were in a speech prepared for a Cincinnati audience.

Son Read Speech

His son read the speech for him because Taft was in the hospital. In the speech, Taft said:

"I believe we might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean War is concerned. I think we should do our best now to negotiate this truce, and if we fail, then let England and our other Allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

Taft also said: "I believe we might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the East and reserve to ourselves a completely free hand."

At Eisenhower's news conference last Thursday, the President was asked whether he shared Taft's view that this country might as well forget the UN as far as the Korean war is concerned.

Eisenhower replied, "no" and went on to say the United States needed friends and allies and that if it attempted to go it alone in one region it would have to do so everywhere else.

'Didn't Use Words'

In asking Taft about the "go it alone" comment today, the reporter said the phrase had been used editorially. The reporter did not specifically refer to the President.

"I didn't use the word 'go it alone,'" Taft said.

He refused to elaborate and said "I have no more comment" even when asked, "do you still stand on your speech?"

Taft is getting about on crutches. He visited the Senate yesterday for the first time since his hospitalization.

Former Store Head Held on Indictment

Anthony J. Albany, 25, Accused on Stolen Property Count

Anthony James Albany, 25-year-old former manager of the Grand Union meat and vegetable store at 292 Wall street, was arrested in Catskill on Wednesday on an accusation of buying and receiving stolen property.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office and Detective Frank Sammons made the arrest, executing a bench warrant signed by County Judge John M. Cashin on the basis of a sealed indictment returned by the grand jury on Monday.

To Be Arraigned June 9

Albany, also known as Tony Albany, gave his address as 670 Broadway when he was booked at the sheriffs office Wednesday afternoon to await arraignment in county court, scheduled for Tuesday morning, June 9.

It was reported unofficially that Albany, who is no longer employed by the Grand Union chain, was starting a sporting goods store in Catskill. The charges, however, concern alleged occurences while he was managing the local grocery store.

Because the indictment remains sealed until the arraingment on Tuesday, further details of the charge could not be revealed today.

Williamson Sent To Bellevue Ward

New York, June 3 (Special)—Robert Williamson, 28, of New York, who was arrested in Kingston on May 18 for a reported robbery in New York, was ordered to Bellevue Hospital for psychiatric observation by Magistrate J. Irwin Shapiro in Felony Court here today.

Williamson is accused of holding up Mary Costello and Helen McInerney, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company cashiers in a Broadway office building here May 5. According to police, he fled with $7,500 cash that the women were taking to the bank.

The defendant was picked up in Kingston at the home of a woman friend.

Polio Cases Reported

Washington, June 4 (AP)—There were 198 cases of infantile paralysis reported over the nation last week. They pushed this year's total to 2,569, or more than 25 per cent greater than the 2,047 up to this time last year the Public Health Service said today.

Reports Revolutionary Atomic Fuel 'Breeding'

Atlantic City, June 4 (AP)—The United States today announced the successful "breeding" of atomic fuel—that is, the production of at least as much, or more, new fissionable material as is burned up in the process of making it.

The development is one of the most revolutionary in the entire atomic program. It was disclosed by Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission in a speech prepared for the Edison Electric Institute.

Dean cautioned his audience of 3,000 electric and power men not to assume that economic power from atomic energy is here. But he called the achievement a milestone of progress and said it "holds out the promise of making a civilian atomic power industry even more feasible and attractive in the long range than it has hitherto appeared to be."

The process, Dean said, was worked out at the AEC's reactor testing station at Arco, Idaho. He illustrated it this way:

"I would like to ask you to imagine a world in which only one hundred gallons of gasoline existed. When that gasoline was used up, gasoline would forever be gone from the earth. But let us imagine that we could make gasoline out of water by burning the gasoline we had in the presence of water. Let us say, for example, that by burning up our 100 gallons of gasoline we could change 90 gallons of water into new gasoline, and that thereafter we could, by burning gasoline in the presence of water, always make new gasoline equivalent to 90 per cent of that which we burned. By such a process we would quite obviously greatly stretch out our supply of gasoline, but we could hardly expect to stretch it out indefinitely, for we would always be making a little less gasoline than we consumed.

"Ultimately we would run out of gasoline before we ran out of water, and all the rest of the water in the world would be useless to us so far as gasoline production was concerned.

"But to pursue our over-simplified analogy, still further, now let us assume that we succeeded in developing a way by which we could produce 100 or more gallons of new gasoline from water for every 100 gallons we burned. Suddenly we would have made it possible for ourselves to change gradually all of the water in the world into gasoline. Our gasoline shortage would have vanished."

Dean said that essentially is what has happened at Arco.

Portentially, the achievement opens the way to making use of the world's supply of Uranium-238, which is 140 times more plentiful than the fissionable U-235, as a source of fuel for power or for

Reds Throw Back Assaults By ROKs; Missions Flown

Seoul, June 4 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Reds today sledgehammered back in bloody hand-to-hand fighting all but one of seven South Korean counter-attacks for key allied hill positions captured by the Communists.

Units of four ROK divisions smashed against Chinese clinging to five outposts on Finger and Bloody Ridges on the east-central front and North Koreans on portions of Luke the Gook's Castle and Anchor Hill in the east.

One outpost was recaptured on Bloody Ridge.

All other counter-attacks were hurled back, and at Luke's Castle and Anchor Ridge North Korean Reds wound up a day of bitter close-quarter fighting in better positions than before.

The UN command said two beefed up Chinese battalions — perhaps 2,500 men—smashed into South Koreans who captured one outpost on Finger Ridge and drove the ROKs off again.

North Koreans wrested the crest of Anchor Hill from ROK infantrymen who drove the Reds off the hill earlier in the day. An Eighth Army briefing officer said that at dusk Communist and South Korean troops faced each other from opposite sides of the dish-shaped crest.

Counter-attacking South Koreans of the 12th Division lost added ground in desperate see-

Defense Tries to Shake Story Of Officer at Cascio's Trial

Taegu, Korea, June 4 (AP)—Defense attorneys tried hard today to shake the story of an officer who testified he turned over—under orders—a secret document on the U. S. Sabre jet fighter to S/Sgt. Guiseppe Cascio, 34 accused of conspiring to sell it to the Communists.

During the cross-examination, Lt. William L. Murphy of Drexel Hill, Pa., testified that Cascio referred to "Communists", "spy rings" and "Reds" in discussing plans with him. Murphy was an air force postal officer at Cascio's air base.

He testified this morning that a document introduced as evidence was the same one handed to him in Tokyo by a man accused as an accomplice of Cascio. Murphy said air force investigators told him to give the document to Cascio and said he did so the next day in Korea.

The trial judge, Lt. Col. Joseph G. Stulb, Jr., of New Orleans ruled this morning against a defense contention that the document was taken "by illegal search and seizure" from a Korean house here in which Cascio was living with a Korean woman.

The document was taken from a locked footlocker in the house when Cascio was arrested last Sept. 22.

Cascio and his girl friend, Miss Sang Myun Hee, testified Wednesday that arresting officers took Cascio and the footlocker from the house without a search warrant. The prosecution contended successfully that the actual seizure of the footlocker was made by a Korean detective in the raiding party, making it legal under Korean laws also.

The general court martial of the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., native is in its third day.

Murphy said he received the Sabre jet document at the Ambassador Hotel in Tokyo last Sept. 8 from S/Sgt. John P. Jones who was stationed in the office of the director of intelligence, Far East Air Forces headquarters.

Jones has since been charged in the case, judged insane by a military board, and returned to the United States.

Murphy, who said he discussed means of disposing of the document with Cascio, had testified previously that Cascio told him he planned to locate Communist agents in the Taegu area and sell them classified military information.

A letter from Cascio to Jones in Tokyo, dated Sept. 14, 1952, also was introduced by the prosecution.

Murphy said he was present when Cascio wrote the letter, which said, "we are all set for a jolly reunion with our Yankee friends." Murphy said the word 'Yankee" was a code word for North Koreans."

Second Lt. Charles B. Slack, of Pitman, N. J., an air force personnel officer, testified that Cascio's record showed no clearance that would have permitted Cascio to handle secret classified information.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator is becoming more soberly impressed by the repetition of the assumption that any let-down from the prevailing business boom will be moderate.

Over and over again, as I pick up business magazines, news-letters, and financial bulletins, I come across this "general opinion," which in effect, says:

The time of the boom is running out; it is tired. Some let-down lies ahead, but it will not be serious. A little deflation is healthy. The deflation will be stopped, if it seems to gain momentum. (So, the economic doctors are treating the high-fever patient cleverly—working to get the fever down, but they will, of course, not permit the patient to have a relapse. Or, to use another analogy, the engineers are going to let the steam gently out of the boilers but will not allow the fires to go out entirely).

This all reads wonderfully, but does make one think of Alice in Wonderland occasionally! ("Take some more tea," the March Hare said to Alice very earnestly. "I've had nothing yet," Alice replied in an offended tone, "so I can't take more." "You mean you can't take less," said the Hatter: "it's very easy to take more than nothing.")

Economic nostrums and quick remedies scare the wits out of these of us who have found it instructive and entertaining to read the manias of mankind and the histories of economic delusions and the numerous nostrums tried out, to control the natural forces in economic trends.

One gets confused in trying to calculate the mental handsprings that appear to permeate official thinking today. Again to quote from "Alice" you may recall where Tweedledum says "I know what you're thinking about, but it isn't so, nohow." "Contrariwise," added Tweedledee, "if it was so, it might be; and it were so, it would be; but it isn't so it ain't. That's logic."

Take the situation right now.

Manufacturers are settling with unions with attractive pay hikes, and added social benefits (increased pensions, and so on). At the same time, the plants are working at top speed. All this is publicized widely. (Every newspaper has doubtless played up the deals just made among General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler, with their unions).

Along with this concrete evidence of booming business—more pay in the envelopes and products going through the assembly departments in mass order—there is the repetitive (and calming) comments that although there should be some moderation in the feverish boom there is no cause for worry or concern. Any real recession or slump is simply not in the cards, we're told.

What is likely to be the effect of this sort of propaganda on the minds and sentiment of 30 million families?

Is there any valid reason why they should stop spending — or should stop borrowing, in order to spend?

Isn't present propaganda even more likely to stimulate public consumption of goods and products?

Now look on the other side—the supply side.

The coming-recession motif does, however, sink in the minds of producers and lenders. They are prone to listen; to be more cautious. So the boom flourishes.

If you look at all this prevailing propaganda and talk about the boom's running out, you get yourself into the confused state of mind of Tweedledee: " * * * if it were so, it would be; but it isn't so it ain't."

But what concerns the Ruminator is that this topsy-turvy situation might very well end up in a manner now totally unexpected. That is, the boom may run on longer than anticipated and THEN when the let-down comes it will be severe, not moderate. I think we should at least consider this contrary possibility. The steam-boiler may crack under the pressure which the economic engineers are unwittingly raising, not lowering.

Although the government has promised them better housing the family protested the move from what had become their home. So workmen were sent to seal the entrance to prevent their moving back.

Lost Cave Hunted

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. Bertram S. The boys said they ran from the cave when they saw two human skeletons in it. They discovered the cave while chasing wild pigs.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator is becoming more soberly impressed by the repetition of the assumption that any let-down from the prevailing business boom will be moderate.

Over and over again, as I pick up business magazines, news-letters, and financial bulletins, I come across this "general opinion," which in effect, says:

The time of the boom is running out; it is tired. Some let-down lies ahead, but it will not be serious. A little deflation is healthy. The deflation will be stopped, if it seems to gain momentum. (So, the economic doctors are treating the high-fever patient cleverly—working to get the fever down, but they will, of course, not permit the patient to have a relapse. Or, to use another analogy, the engineers are going to let the steam gently out of the boilers but will not allow the fires to go out entirely).

This all reads wonderfully, but does make one think of Alice in Wonderland occasionally! ("Take some more tea," the March Hare said to Alice very earnestly. "I've had nothing yet," Alice replied in an offended tone, "so I can't take more." "You mean you can't take less," said the Hatter: "it's very easy to take more than nothing.")

Economic nostrums and quick remedies scare the wits out of these of us who have found it instructive and entertaining to read the manias of mankind and the histories of economic delusions and the numerous nostrums tried out to control the natural forces in economic trends.

RED AIMS SEEM UNCHANGED

Nearly three years ago the Communists moved into South Korea and thereupon touched off the greatest peacetime defense effort in the history of free nations.

All the evidence which could be unearthed indicated that the Soviet Union, the sponsor of this aggression, was greatly surprised and shocked by the West's violent response to the move.

The defense of Korea was just one phase. NATO, theretofore largely a paper organization, gained muscle and steel. The foreign-military-aid program was born. America's own defense took on greater stature. Finally, six western European countries signed a pact creating a European army, to include 12 divisions from West Germany.

In the political and economic sphere, the Schuman plan for a European coal-and-steel community came into being, important efforts were made to draw the Bonn government closer to the West, and ambitious, European-minded statesmen started drafting a constitution for a United States of Europe.

None of this could have made the Russians happy. They have been trying, one way or another, to reverse these strong currents toward western unity ever since 1950.

The natural delays, complications and disagreements which go with so tremendous a defense effort by a varied group of nations were some assistance to Soviet aims. So were the popular attitudes against making new economic sacrifices so soon after World War II.

But the real reversal developed gradually with the loss of a sense of urgency in the defense program. Russia contributed to that mood by refraining from fresh aggressions on the Korea model. Despite constant warnings to the contrary from many alert western statesmen, the push toward real western unity and rearmament slowed perceptibly.

The Soviet Union's 1953 "peace offensive" is calculated to accentuate this new trend by putting a powerful brake on common western action. It has raised false hopes in many breasts and provided excuse for turning away from painful decisions.

Yet recent declarations from Moscow have begun to chill the spirit of the hopefuls. The suspicion is growing that Russia does not want a settlement except on its own impossible terms. The Soviet Union's strength does not seem to have lessened nor its goals to have changed since the big western effort began.

In this reawakening to the nature of the enemy, many men are casting doubt on the wisdom of allowing severe arms reductions, and of permitting brave projects like the European army plan to drag on for a whole year without final approval.

Clearly there is no safety against Russia in doing too little. If we are not to rely upon these measures so brilliantly planned since 1950, then in what alternatives shall we find our security?

ADJOURNMENT IN JULY

Congress always manages to approach the end of each session with a great deal of business still undone. This year the legislators hope to get out of Washington by July. Some legislation will have to be passed in a hurry and other bills, not considered pressing, will have to wait until next year for action.

Before it adjourns this Congress will have to decide upon the extension of the reciprocal trade programs and the excess profits tax. Such measures as statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act, the Bricker Amendment, and the St. Lawrence Seaway will probably not be considered.

No one can criticize Congress for wanting to end its legislative labors early. Members of Congress work hard. Often their efforts go unnoticed. But surely some method can be found to streamline the process of legislating so that the vital issues which should be debated and considered at length are not all left until the end of the session.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

EVERLASTING KOREA

Everything has now been tried in Korea except a fighting war into the Manchurian sanctuary or the acceptance of defeat. Winston Churchill has, in effect, proposed the acceptance of defeat no matter how cautiously he worded his speech.

Realistically, we have suffered a military and diplomatic defeat in Korea. A victory would have been possible if, during the first period of the war, we had risked greatly and won a swift victory. This was not done because the formula, "Europe First," was the guide.

Instead, the United States because involved in the politics of 16 allies, most of whom contributed little or nothing to the war. Policies in reality had to satisfy a majority of the United Nations countries, and particularly Great Britain and the Indian-Moslem group of Asiatic and African states. At no time did the United States enjoy the full confidence and support of its allies or of the Indian-Moslem group of states in the United Nations.

It was under such conditions that General Douglas MacArthur was eliminated from the Korean situation. Generals MacArthur, Ridgway and Van Fleet have each insisted that he could have won the Korean War had he been given a theatre commander's full authority.

In a speech before the Circumnavigators Club, in the presence of General MacArthur, with several hundred men watching his face for approval or denial, I said that Winston Churchill worked for and finally achieved MacArthur's removal from Korea. The General did not deny that charge.

Actually Churchill's antagonism toward MacArthur did not begin with Korea. It arose over MacArthur's rejection of the idea of including Japan in the sterling bloc rather than among the dollar nations. Had Japan been forced into the sterling bloc, it would have been stifled by Great Britain economically.

The elimination of MacArthur ended the possibility of a hot pursuit of the enemy into his Manchurian sanctuary. The long truce talks, now lasting almost two years, gave the Kremlin ample opportunity to strengthen the Chinese and Korean satellites, so that today little short of an all-out war can achieve their defeat.

That is where we stand now. Many Americans still live in the never-never land of hope and believe that the United States cannot be defeated by an alliance of North Korea and Soviet China. Actually to such an alliance must be added Soviet Russia, the directing genius of the war, and those of our allies who insist on supplying our enemies because it is profitable trade.

What shall we do?

The answer to that question is not easy. For the first time since the war started, the Joint Chiefs of Staff will soon include men who are familiar with the Far East. Admiral Arthur W. Radford is a Far Eastern expert of the MacArthur school. He has been outspoken in his ideas concerning China and particularly Formosa. President Eisenhower would not have appointed Admiral Radford to the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were he altogether unsympathetic to his ideas.

Nevertheless, too must cannot be made of this because the President of the United States is the final arbiter of all military questions and he conducts the foreign policy of our country. And no matter who is on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he will bow to the President's decision as long as he holds such a position. It cannot be said of Eisenhower that he has pursued a policy of "Europe First" since he has become President. Rather, his has been a search for an American policy—one that will in Europe find a road to a united Western Europe, and in Asia, an end to war with dignity and honor.

The real difficulty is that a new President inherits all that came before him, much of which he cannot undo. He inherits commitments and agreements and promises, of some of which he may not have been aware before he became President. He inherits allies. He cannot unmake these arrangements suddenly.

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, is being blamed by the British because Dulles acknowledges that Americans cannot continue to be killed in Korea for no purpose and to no end. He is no mirror of Acheson.

This is a tragic moment in our history and only frankness and candor will save us. The danger of Bermuda is that it may again be a Munich.

IMPORTANCE OF THE FEET

I write often about the importance of the feet to health, to life itself, as it is an actual fact that most of us earn as much by our feet as by our head. Also sore feet not only interfere with our earning capacity but can interfere with our everyday happiness. I have written before of a President of the United States who suffered so much with his feet that at times he departed greatly from his usual courteous behavior.

Unfortunately, physicians did not pay much attention to their study of the feet as students, and today as general physicians they are not much interested.

In The Bulletin, Vancouver Medical Association, Dr. J. H. Macdermott, editor, states: "The human foot is to a great extent an unexplained area in medicine. The medical student receives full training in the anatomy of the foot and its relation to the function of the body generally, but the relation of the foot to general diseases is not taught."

However, we are all now beginning to realize the importance of the foot to health and industry as a cause of human disability and suffering and great economic loss.

"Industry finds that foot ailments are the cause of much loss of time, poor work, and accidents. Workmen's Compensation Boards are interesting themselves in the prevention of crippling through injuries of the foot. The Armed Forces, in the last war, found a tremendous amount of incapacity during service as a result of unstable and weak feet."

As it is natural for all to consult their physician when any part of the body is suffering or disabled, they find that the physician is not often interested nor is he equipped to treat painful feet unless, of course, the condition is due to rheumatism or arthritis. Accordingly the patient is sent to a graduate chiropodist who fortunately understands the dynamics and also diseases and injuries of the foot, and is equipped to treat them properly.

Dr. Macdermott states further that in industry it has been found that sore feet as a cause of absenteeism are responsible to the degree that one man in ten is absent from two to seven days a month.

As most foot disabilities first occur in childhood, it is unfortunate that while heart, chest, and spine are carefully examined at school, "little or no provision exists at present for systematic surveys of children's feet at home, in schools or elsewhere. The chiropodist of today bears no resemblance to the "corn doctor" of thirty or more years ago. The graduate chiropodist today must have adequate academic training and a four-year course in his special field of chiropody.

Washington (NEA) — Washington is beginning to buzz about the White House bridge games. One recent Sunday session began in mid-afternoon and ended along about midnight, with a break at suppertime.

In the game with the President were Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Air Force Harold M. Talbott and George Allen. Mr. Allen owns a farm adjoining Ike's in Pennsylvania. He was a crony of President Truman's too, and used to be considered a Democrat.

Secretary Humphrey had to leave the game to appear on a "Meet the Press" television show at six, but came back afterward.

President Truman used to play a lot of poker with his cronies. To the White House press corps this was known as "working on papers." But he never allowed any poker in the White House. It was always on the Williamsburg, at Key West, or some other vacation resort.

Old Sea-School Tie

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, new chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Adm. Robert B. Carney, new chief of naval operations, were both members of the 1916 class at Annapolis. They served together in the Pacific for a year during the war. After the war, they served together for another year as deputies to the CNO.

Having known each other for 41 years—the first four years as Naval Academy classmates — the two seadogs are expected to work closely and in complete harmony on the JCS.

While advocates of all-out air force superiority view this combination with some misgivings, the other half of the new JCS team also has an old school tie.

Both Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the new army chief of staff, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, air force chief of staff, were members of the 1917 class at West Point. General Twining was graduated as an infantry officer and switched to aviation in 1923.

Story Behind Romance

The start of the romance between Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy's beauteous sister, Eunice, and Robert Sergeant Shriver, Jr., is a story few Washingtonians know. The Kennedy-Shriver wedding in New York recently was one of the most elaborate social events in years.

It was something of a turnabout for Eunice Kennedy, daughter of the wealthy former ambassador, Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston, to promise to love, honor and "obey" Mr. Shriver.

Five years ago Miss Kennedy headed a juvenile delinquency program in the Department of Justice. The tall, good-looking young assistant assigned to her on this job was Mr. Shriver. Then, he obeyed her. It took all that time for Miss Kennedy to realize that what she really wanted was to take orders from her former assistant.

Incidentally, neither the new Mrs. Shriver nor her social-work-minded husband took a penny of pay during their government employment. But their volunteer services paid off for them, at least.

Lobbyists Play Detective

Farm organization leaders in Washington have been checking up on a remark made by President Eisenhower during his inspection of the Department of Agriculture experiment station at Beltsville, Md., just outside of Washington.

"I read in the papers of making a lot of promises I did not make," said the President. "But I did make one which shows I'm not as stupid as I sometimes appear. This is that we need more research."

The farm lobbyists immediately checked this against the administration budget requests for agricultural research. They found that the total Research Administration budget request had been cut from $79.5 million to $77.1 million. The House Appropriations Committee further cut this to $75.9 million.

The figure on international hoof-and-mouth research was cut by the administration from $4.4 million to $4.2 million. Congress further cut this to $3.9 million. For animal disease control the figure was cut from $9 million to $8.5 million.

Coronation Crumpets

Washington's own celebration of Queen Elizabeth's coronation—a super-duper garden party at the British embassy by all of the Commonwealth countries — had the traditional Devonshire-style strawberries and cream on the refreshment menu.

In the good old days, British garden parties on the king's birthday used to have both the berries and the cream shipped from England. Yielding to practicality, they now serve U. S. A.-produced groceries—excepting, of course, some of the famous British cakes, and the tea.

Prisoners of State

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine was reporting to the Senate on a decision of the U. S. Court of Military Appeals regarding the confinemenmt of navy courts-martial prisoners on bread-and-water rations.

When she had concluded her remarks, Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire commented wryly: "The senator from Maine has been speaking about bread and water furnished for the diet of navy prisoners. That is what we get in the Senate restaurant every day."

Top Secret Funny Stuff

The difficulties in getting commercial atomic energy power plants into operation by private industry was illustrated by a hypothetical discussion between an industrialist and a banker. This is the way one atomic energy expert says their dialog would go, under present legal and security restrictions.

Industrialist—"How about lending me some money to build an atomic energy power plant? I need $60 million."

Banker—"Very interesting. Tell me something about it."

Industrialist—"Sorry, I can't do that. It's all classified."

Banker—"Well, I suppose that's the way it has to be. Where would you put your plant?"

Industrialist — "It wouldn't be my plant. Under present laws, the government would own the plant and own all the fuel, too."

Banker — "I have a piece of property out in Chicago. Could the plant be built and the electricity sold there?"

Industrialist — "No, that location is too close to a city."

Banker—"Well, how about reliability? Can this plant deliver firm power?"

Industrialist — "I don't know. We've never built one."

Banker — "Would this be economic power, to compete with established power plants?"

Industrialist — "I'm sorry, but that's classified."

Banker — "You're making it very difficult, but after all I'm a gambler. This is a risk, but you have to take risks. Maybe we could really make cheap power and make some profits."

Industrialist — "Don't be too sure about that. If we produce cheaper electricity, the Federal Power Commission might force us to pass the savings on to the consumers, through reduced rates."

And that, says the atomic energy expert, would probably end the interview.

On this Island of the Cyclops, near Catania, Sicily, Ulysses had his epic adventure with the Cyclops (a one-eyed giant). The idea may have been suggested to Homer by the sight of this island which rises out of the sea like a monster head. Britain Celebrates Without Disparagement; U. S. Paper Discredits Own Flag Over UN

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 4—All the world and a goodly section of the American press recognized in the British coronation ceremony this week a deep-seated, patriotic devotion on the part of the British people to their ancient tradition. No voices were raised here to disparage the celebration as a piece of "chauvinism" or excessive pride in the symbols of a nation.

Yet this week, when the Senate passed and sent to the House for action a bill which would forbid the display of the United Nations flag in a position superior or equal to the flag of the United States, one important newspaper hereabouts called it a "piece of chauvinism" and wondered whether dignity and honor of the American flag came from such manifestations or from the valor of men who carried that flag on the field of battle.

This is a misconception which seems to have become widespread in certain circles in recent years in America—that it is somehow overly patriotic to show reverence for the American Flag and that the United Nations is some kind of superstate to which the American people and, indeed, their troops must pay an allegiance higher than that given to the United States itself.

It crops out in many ways. Lately some American employes of the UN, with the support of some legal opinions by UN doctrinaires, have taken the position that once these employes become a part of the UN, they are no longer responsible to any national jurisdiction as citizens.

There seems to have grown up an idea, too, that the United Nations is a world government instead of a union of sovereign governments. In the Senate a proposal by Senator Bricker to amend the federal constitution has developed a controversy as to whether agreements of a legislative character made under the treaty by which the United States entered the UN will supersede the laws of the United States. At one time the present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in a public address expressed apprehension concerning this possibility.

Many of the misunderstandings concerning the true role of the UN arise from an overselling of the UN as an instrument that supposedly enforces peace. There are people in America who think of the UN as a governmental structure that is over and above individual governments. But their fanaticism blindly overlooks the realistic fact that today one set of members of the UN is arming against another set and also that the UN has declared Red China an aggressor and another member of the UN—Soviet Russia—publicly admits sending munitions of war to help the aggressor in Korea.

The spirit of a nation, indeed the morale of its fighting army, is directly related to the reverence and devotion given to a national symbol—its flag. School children are taught in the American schools to pledge allegiance to the flag. American troops pay tribute to the flag by their daily salute at sundown. The nation's anthem is dedicated to a star-spangled banner.

What so many cynics of these times overlook is that fighting spirit is itself closely related to national spirit and that decadence in the military forces sets in and the morale of a people begins to deteriorate when the symbols of national pride no longer stir the hearts of the citizens. Just a year ago this correspondent, when in Europe, chatted one day with a high British military officer associated with NATO, and the latter expressed privately his belief that a European defense army with a single uniform would never be as soul-stirring as national divisions wearing distinctive uniforms and insignia.

It is, of course, true that the theme of Germany's song, "Deutschland Uber Alles," came under Hitler to typify an abuse of nationalism—a menace to the peace of other countries. But it will be noted that recently, when it came to choosing a national anthem, all political parties in West Germany insisted on legalizing that same song under which German troops had been called to battle before. Tradition is hard to break, if indeed it is wise to attempt for any reason to break the spirit of a people's patriotism.

The placing of the UN flag above the American flag, it might be contended, would be a harmless courtesy, but in the present atmosphere—where the tendency is to exalt a strange kind of "internationalism" which definitely seeks to disparage all national feelings as "isolationism" or mistaken nationalism—it is not amiss to strengthen rather than weaken faith in the symbols of the United States and especially in its flag.

The Communists, to be sure, have an international ideology. Some of the French Communists say they are for "communism above all else" and above even allegiance to the French flag. A union of free nations, whether it be in the UN or a military alliance like NATO, will be stronger when each component member has a truly national spirit than if regard for a nation's flag is insidiously undermined by an ideology of universalism.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

When Nancy Astor made an ill-mannered crack about Senator Joe McCarthy at a drinking in Washington, not long ago, she did us the only service that I can thank her for since she took her loyalty to England, a good riddance, considering its inconstancy and her obstreperous rudeness. The service that I speak of was her drastic demonstration of the fact that much of the stuff that has passed for wit, art and originality in politics, society and writing since Theodore Roosevelt's innovations, has amounted to nothing more than bad manners and the effect of shock on orderly people.

I know Lady Astor and respect her bravery in sticking to Britain in the down-hill days, including the dangerous time of the second war. She may have written why she took herself there, turning her back on her own country, but, if so, I never read it and the decision was, to me, unthinkable, for we are not, as the Europeans are, an emigrating and apostatizing people. Few native Americans quit their country and of those few only a few renounce a birthright which is so precious and spiritual that it is simply unspeakable. I seem to be paraphrasing Hitler's concept of Germanism, but, if so, so be it.

In a social gathering at the Tafts in Washington, Nancy was reported to have said she hoped that the drink in Joe McCarthy's hand was poison. This got quoted on both sides of the Atlantic and I have never read that she had the politeness to apologize to her host and hostess or to McCarthy and, knowing her way, doubt that she did.

What wit was there in this remark? It was so coarse and trite that, coming from some bleary old hag in a tavern, it would have caused no more attention than a splash of beer in the face, a gust of obscenity and, perhaps, sounds of scuffling in the gravel in the dark, outside.

Nancy is one of our American well-born. She was one of the Langhorne sisters of Virginia, another having married Charles Dana Gibson, a very good pen-and-ink illustrator who in his latter days took altogether too literally the generous American honorific of grand old man. He was, in matters apart from drawing, a pompous blimp without the slightest appreciation of his country's constitutional character and a share of Nancy Astor's regard for Britain as the mother country. Of this heritage and married to an Astor in the days of our dollar aristocracy, Nancy could not fail to command attention, though not necessarily respect, when she took to the stump to rough it with the hecklers of English politics on her way to become the first woman member of Parliament. When, to her credit, she topped them in repartee, she endeared herself to many of the English people. However, manners were still a strong, though waning peculiarity of the better Englishmen and women and she was endured rather than accepted by the quality.

The attack on courtesy came from all sides. Lloyd George was an earlier version of the demagog who profaned the White House with incitations to class hatred from 1933 to 1945 and his principal ally in the press was the blatherskite Northcliffe, who may have been crazy even then, as he certainly was toward his end. The proportion of people who observe good manners is so small that politicians can flout them with impunity and profit. The history of journalism in Britain and here shows that jeers at dignity pay off regardless of their quality or the facts behind mere repartee. The Red press, which now far exceeds the worst excesses of the yellow journalism of the past, is able to play upon the mass vulgarity without any

RED AIMS SEEM UNCHANGED

Nearly three years ago the Communists moved into South Korea and thereupon touched off the greatest peacetime defense effort in the history of free nations.

All the evidence which could be unearthed indicated that the Soviet Union, the sponsor of this aggression, was greatly surprised and shocked by the West's violent response to the move.

The defense of Korea was just one phase. NATO, theretofore largely a paper organization, gained muscle and steel. The foreign-military-aid program was born. America's own defense took on greater stature. Finally, six western European countries signed a pact creating a European army, to include 12 divisions from West Germany.

In the political and economic sphere, the Schuman plan for a European coal-and-steel community came into being, important efforts were made to draw the Bonn government closer to the West, and ambitious, European-minded statesmen started drafting a constitution for a United States of Europe.

None of this could have made the Russians happy. They have been trying, one way or another, to reverse these strong currents toward western unity ever since 1950.

The natural delays, complications and disagreements which go with so tremendous a defense effort by a varied group of nations were some assistance to Soviet aims. So were the popular attitudes against making new economic sacrifices so soon after World War II.

But the real reversal developed gradually with the loss of a sense of urgency in the defense program. Russia contributed to that mood by refraining from fresh aggressions on the Korea model. Despite constant warnings to the contrary from many alert western statesmen, the push toward real western unity and rearmament slowed perceptibly.

The Soviet Union's 1953 "peace offensive" is calculated to accentuate this new trend by putting a powerful brake on common western action. It has raised false hopes in many breasts and provided excuse for turning away from painful decisions.

Yet recent declarations from Moscow have begun to chill the spirit of the hopefuls. The suspicion is growing that Russia does not want a settlement except on its own impossible terms. The Soviet Union's strength does not seem to have lessened nor its goals to have changed since the big western effort began.

In this reawakening to the nature of the enemy, many men are casting doubt on the wisdom of allowing severe arms reductions, and of permitting brave projects like the European army plan to drag on for a whole year without final approval.

Clearly there is no safety against Russia in doing too little. If we are not to rely upon these measures so brilliantly planned since 1950, then in what alternatives shall we find our security?

ADJOURNMENT IN JULY

Congress always manages to approach the end of each session with a great deal of business still undone. This year the legislators hope to get out of Washington by July. Some legislation will have to be passed in a hurry and other bills, not considered pressing, will have to wait until next year for action.

Before it adjourns this Congress will have to decide upon the extension of the reciprocal trade programs and the excess profits tax. Such measures as statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act, the Bricker Amendment, and the St. Lawrence Seaway will probably not be considered.

No one can criticize Congress for wanting to end its legislative labors early. Members of Congress work hard. Often their efforts go unnoticed. But surely some method can be found to streamline the process of legislating so that the vital issues which should be debated and considered at length are not all left until the end of the session.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

EVERLASTING KOREA

Everything has now been tried in Korea except a fighting war into the Manchurian sanctuary or the acceptance of defeat. Winston Churchill has, in effect, proposed the acceptance of defeat no matter how cautiously he worded his speech.

Realistically, we have suffered a military and diplomatic defeat in Korea. A victory would have been possible if, during the first period of the war, we had risked greatly and won a swift victory. This was not done because the formula, "Europe First," was the guide.

Instead, the United States because involved in the politics of 16 allies, most of whom contributed little or nothing to the war. Policies in reality had to satisfy a majority of the United Nations countries, and particularly Great Britain and the Indian-Moslem group of Asiatic and African states. At no time did the United States enjoy the full confidence and support of its allies or of the Indian-Moslem group of states in the United Nations.

It was under such conditions that General Douglas MacArthur was eliminated from the Korean situation. Generals MacArthur, Ridgway and Van Fleet have each insisted that he could have won the Korean War had he been given a theatre commander's full authority.

In a speech before the Circumnavigators Club, in the presence of General MacArthur, with several hundred men watching his face for approval or denial, I said that Winston Churchill worked for and finally achieved MacArthur's removal from Korea. The General did not deny that charge.

Actually Churchill's antagonism toward MacArthur did not begin with Korea. It arose over MacArthur's rejection of the idea of including Japan in the sterling bloc rather than among the dollar nations. Had Japan been forced into the sterling bloc, it would have been stifled by Great Britain economically.

The elimination of MacArthur ended the possibility of a hot pursuit of the enemy into his Manchurian sanctuary. The long truce talks, now lasting almost two years, gave the Kremlin ample opportunity to strengthen the Chinese and Korean satellites, so that today little short of an all-out war can achieve their defeat.

That is where we stand now. Many Americans still live in the never-never land of hope and believe that the United States cannot be defeated by an alliance of North Korea and Soviet China. Actually to such an alliance must be added Soviet Russia, the directing genius of the war, and those of our allies who insist on supplying our enemies because it is profitable trade.

What shall we do?

The answer to that question is not easy. For the first time since the war started, the Joint Chiefs of Staff will soon include men who are familiar with the Far East. Admiral Arthur W. Radford is a Far Eastern expert of the MacArthur school. He has been outspoken in his ideas concerning China and particularly Formosa. President Eisenhower would not have appointed Admiral Radford to the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were he altogether unsympathetic to his ideas.

Nevertheless, too must cannot be made of this because the President of the United States is the final arbiter of all military questions and he conducts the foreign policy of our country. And no matter who is on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he will bow to the President's decision as long as he holds such a position. It cannot be said of Eisenhower that he has pursued a policy of "Europe First" since he has become President. Rather, his has been a search for an American policy—one that will in Europe find a road to a united Western Europe, and in Asia, an end to war with dignity and honor.

The real difficulty is that a new President inherits all that came before him, much of which he cannot undo. He inherits commitments and agreements and promises, of some of which he may not have been aware before he became President. He inherits allies. He cannot unmake these arrangements suddenly.

John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, is being blamed by the British because Dulles acknowledges that Americans cannot continue to be killed in Korea for no purpose and to no end. He is no mirror of Acheson.

They served together in the Pacific for a year during the war. After the war, they served together for another year as deputies to the CNO.

Having known each other for 41 years—the first four years as Naval Academy classmates — the two seadogs are expected to work closely and in complete harmony on the JCS.

While advocates of all-out air force superiority view this combination with some misgivings, the other half of the new JCS team also has an old school tie.

Both Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the new army chief of staff, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, air force chief of staff, were members of the 1917 class at West Point. General Twining was graduated as an infantry officer and switched to aviation in 1923.

Story Behind Romance

The start of the romance between Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy's beauteous sister, Eunice, and Robert Sergeant Shriver, Jr., is a story few Washingtonians know. The Kennedy-Shriver wedding in New York recently was one of the most elaborate social events in years.

It was something of a turnabout for Eunice Kennedy, daughter of the wealthy former ambassador, Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston, to promise to love, honor and "obey" Mr. Shriver.

Five years ago Miss Kennedy headed a juvenile delinquency program in the Department of Justice. The tall, good-looking young assistant assigned to her on this job was Mr. Shriver. Then, he obeyed her. It took all that time for Miss Kennedy to realize that what she really wanted was to take orders from her former assistant.

Incidentally, neither the new Mrs. Shriver nor her social-work-minded husband took a penny of pay during their government employment. But their volunteer services paid off for them, at least.

Lobbyists Play Detective

Farm organization leaders in Washington have been checking up on a remark made by President Eisenhower during his inspection of the Department of Agriculture experiment station at Beltsville, Md., just outside of Washington.

"I read in the papers of making a lot of promises I did not make," said the President. "But I did make one which shows I'm not as stupid as I sometimes appear. This is that we need more research."

The farm lobbyists immediately checked this against the administration budget requests for agricultural research. They found that the total Research Administration budget request had been cut from $79.5 million to $77.1 million. The House Appropriations Committee further cut this to $75.9 million.

The figure on international hoof-and-mouth research was cut by the administration from $4.4 million to $4.2 million. Congress further cut this to $3.9 million. For animal disease control the figure was cut from $9 million to $8.5 million.

Coronation Crumpets

Washington's own celebration of Queen Elizabeth's coronation—a super-duper garden party at the British embassy by all of the Commonwealth countries — had the traditional Devonshire-style strawberries and cream on the refreshment menu.

In the good old days, British garden parties on the king's birthday used to have both the berries and the cream shipped from England. Yielding to practicality, they now serve U. S. A.-produced groceries—excepting, of course, some of the famous British cakes, and the tea.

Prisoners of State

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine was reporting to the Senate on a decision of the U. S. Court of Military Appeals regarding the confinemenmt of navy courts-martial prisoners on bread-and-water rations.

When she had concluded her remarks, Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire commented wryly: "The senator from Maine has been speaking about bread and water furnished for the diet of navy prisoners. That is what we get in the Senate restaurant every day."

Top Secret Funny Stuff

The difficulties in getting commercial atomic energy power plants into operation by private industry was illustrated by a hypothetical discussion between an industrialist and a banker. This is the way one atomic energy expert says their dialog would go, under present legal and security restrictions.

Industrialist—"How about lending me some money to build an atomic energy power plant? I need $60 million."

Banker—"Very interesting. Tell me something about it."

Industrialist—"Sorry, I can't do that. It's all classified."

Banker—"Well, I suppose that's the way it has to be. Where would you put your plant?"

Industrialist — "It wouldn't be my plant. Under present laws, the government would own the plant and own all the fuel, too."

Banker — "I have a piece of property out in Chicago. Could the plant be built and the electricity sold there?"

Industrialist — "No, that location is too close to a city."

Banker—"Well, how about reliability? Can this plant deliver firm power?"

Industrialist — "I don't know. We've never built one."

Banker — "Would this be economic power, to compete with established power plants?"

Industrialist — "I'm sorry, but that's classified."

Banker — "You're making it very difficult, but after all I'm a gambler. This is a risk, but you have to take risks. Maybe we could really make cheap power and make some profits."

Industrialist — "Don't be too sure about that. If we produce cheaper electricity, the Federal Power Commission might force us to pass the savings on to the consumers, through reduced rates."

And that, says the atomic energy expert, would probably end the interview.

The Island of the Cyclops

On this Island of the Cyclops, near Catania, Sicily, Ulysses had his epic adventure with the Cyclops (a one-eyed giant). The idea may have been suggested to Homer by the sight of this island which rises out of the sea like a monster head. Where the eye would be there is a single large round hole through which the daylight shines from side to side.

Britain Celebrates Without Disparagement; U. S. Paper Discredits Own Flag Over UN

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 4—All the world and a goodly section of the American press recognized in the British coronation ceremony this week a deep-seated, patriotic devotion on the part of the British people to their ancient tradition. No voices were raised here to disparage the celebration as a piece of "chauvinism" or excessive pride in the symbols of a nation.

Yet this week, when the Senate passed and sent to the House for action a bill which would forbid the display of the United Nations flag in a position superior or equal to the flag of the United States, one important newspaper hereabouts called it a "piece of chauvinism" and wondered whether dignity and honor of the American flag came from such manifestations or from the valor of men who carried that flag on the field of battle.

This is a misconception which seems to have become widespread in certain circles in recent years in America—that it is somehow overly patriotic to show reverence for the American Flag and that the United Nations is some kind of superstate to which the American people and, indeed, their troops must pay an allegiance higher than that given to the United States itself.

It crops out in many ways. Lately some American employes of the UN, with the support of some legal opinions by UN doctrinaires, have taken the position that once these employes become a part of the UN, they are no longer responsible to any national jurisdiction as citizens.

There seems to have grown up an idea, too, that the United Nations is a world government instead of a union of sovereign governments. In the Senate a proposal by Senator Bricker to amend the federal constitution has developed a controversy as to whether agreements of a legislative character made under the treaty by which the United States entered the UN will supersede the laws of the United States. At one time the present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in a public address expressed apprehension concerning this possibility.

Many of the misunderstandings concerning the true role of the UN arise from an overselling of the UN as an instrument that supposedly enforces peace. There are people in America who think of the UN as a governmental structure that is over and above individual governments. But their fanaticism blindly overlooks the realistic fact that today one set of members of the UN is arming against another set and also that the UN has declared Red China an aggressor and another member of the UN—Soviet Russia—publicly admits sending munitions of war to help the aggressor in Korea.

The spirit of a nation, indeed the morale of its fighting army, is directly related to the reverence and devotion given to a national symbol—its flag. School children are taught in the American schools to pledge allegiance to the flag. American troops pay tribute to the flag by their daily salute at sundown. The nation's anthem is dedicated to a star-spangled banner.

What so many cynics of these times overlook is that fighting spirit is itself closely related to national spirit and that decadence in the military forces sets in and the morale of a people begins to deteriorate when the symbols of national pride no longer stir the hearts of the citizens. Just a year ago this correspondent, when in Europe, chatted one day with a high British military officer associated with NATO, and the latter expressed privately his belief that a European defense army with a single uniform would never be as soul-stirring as national divisions wearing distinctive uniforms and insignia.

It is, of course, true that the theme of Germany's song, "Deutschland Uber Alles," came under Hitler to typify an abuse of nationalism—a menace to the peace of other countries. But it will be noted that recently, when it came to choosing a national anthem, all political parties in West Germany insisted on legalizing that same song under which German troops had been called to battle before. Tradition is hard to break, if indeed it is wise to attempt for any reason to break the spirit of a people's patriotism.

The placing of the UN flag above the American flag, it might be contended, would be a harmless courtesy, but in the present atmosphere—where the tendency is to exalt a strange kind of "internationalism" which definitely seeks to disparage all national feelings as "isolationism" or mistaken nationalism—it is not amiss to strengthen rather than weaken faith in the symbols of the United States and especially in its flag.

The Communists, to be sure, have an international ideology. Some of the French Communists say they are for "communism above all else" and above even allegiance to the French flag. A union of free nations, whether it be in the UN or a military alliance like NATO, will be stronger when each component member has a truly national spirit than if regard for a nation's flag is insidiously undermined by an ideology of universalism.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

When Nancy Astor made an ill-mannered crack about Senator Joe McCarthy at a drinking in Washington, not long ago, she did us the only service that I can thank her for since she took her loyalty to England, a good riddance, considering its inconstancy and her obstreperous rudeness. The service that I speak of was her drastic demonstration of the fact that much of the stuff that has passed for wit, art and originality in politics, society and writing since Theodore Roosevelt's innovations, has amounted to nothing more than bad manners and the effect of shock on orderly people.

I know Lady Astor and respect her bravery in sticking to Britain in the down-hill days, including the dangerous time of the second war. She may have written why she took herself there, turning her back on her own country, but, if so, I never read it and the decision was, to me, unthinkable, for we are not, as the Europeans are, an emigrating and apostatizing people. Few native Americans quit their country and of those few only a few renounce a birthright which is so precious and spiritual that it is simply unspeakable. I seem to be paraphrasing Hitler's concept of Germanism, but, if so, so be it.

In a social gathering at the Tafts in Washington, Nancy was reported to have said she hoped that the drink in Joe McCarthy's hand was poison. This got quoted on both sides of the Atlantic and I have never read that she had the politeness to apologize to her host and hostess or to McCarthy and, knowing her way, doubt that she did.

What wit was there in this remark? It was so coarse and trite that, coming from some blearly old hag in a tavern, it would have caused no more attention than a splash of beer in the face, a gust of obscenity and, perhaps, sounds of scuffling in the gravel in the dark, outside.

Nancy is one of our American well-born. She was one of the Langhorne sisters of Virginia, another having married Charles Dana Gibson, a very good pen-and-ink illustrator who in his latter days took altogether too literally the generous American honorific of grand old man. He was, in matters apart from drawing, a pompous blimp without the slightest appreciation of his country's constitutional character and a share of Nancy Astor's regard for Britain as the mother country. Of this heritage and married to an Astor in the days of our dollar aristocracy, Nancy could not fail to command attention, though not necessarily respect, when she took to the stump to rough it with the heckiers of English politics on her way to become the first woman member of Parliament. When, to her credit, she topped them in repartee, she endeared herself to many of the English people. However, manners were still a strong, though waning peculiarity of the better Englishmen and women and she was endured rather than accepted by the quality.

The attack on courtesy came from all sides. Lloyd George was an earlier version of the demagog who profaned the White House with incitations to class hatred from 1933 to 1945 and his principal ally in the press was the blatherskite Northcliffe, who may have been crazy even then, as he certainly was toward his end. The proportion of people who observe good manners is so small that politicians can flout them with impunity and profit. The history of journalism in Britain and here shows that jeers at dignity pay off regardless of their quality or the facts behind mere repartee. The Red press, which now far exceeds the worst excesses of the yellow journalism of the past, is able to play upon the mass vulgarity without any with sandbox and shadow box exhibits, which were fun to do.

The booklet also recalls to my mind such ardent Temple workers as the late Sarah and Sam Riber. Sam was a great showman, as most folks remember, and added much talent to the Temple shows. Sarah was great for running her famous roast beef suppers and card parties. The late Aaron Myers also did his bit in the shows. As no organization can exist just from itself and its members, it needs the ouside support of folks like Judge John M. Cashin, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly and many others who spent hours rehearsing for the famous Temple shows which always played to a packed house. A 100 years is an excellent record but no doubt it would take pages and pages to record all the names of people who in some way made it possible because of their personal interest, talent and time, to keep the Temple going for the past century.

McCarthy Thinks Priority Senator Can Get Lot Done

Dallas, Tex., June 4 (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R.-Wisc.) says he thinks a senator with a lot of seniority can get as much done over a long period as any President can in his two permitted terms.

The senator denied presidential ambitions in talking to newsmen yesterday.

McCarthy refused to say where he had been when he returned here yesterday. His trip apparently was a vacation to the Mexican ranches of Dallas millionaire Clint Muchison.

But the senator talked freely about other matters. He denied any plans to be married at this time. He repeated his charge that the British and French have been supplying war materials to the enemy.

On his own ambitions, McCarthy said he had none beyond his seat in the Senate.

"If you get into the Senate at an early age," he said, "and get a lot of seniority, you can get as much done over a longer period as any President can. The President has greater power, but can serve only two terms." McCarthy was 37 when elected to the Senate.

Eases Japanese Tariff

Hong Kong (AP)—This crown colony of Britain has lifted restrictions on the imports of a wide variety of Japanese goods. Listed free from restriction are rayon yarns, household utensils, enamel ware, toys, cigarette lighters, fountain pens, pencils, bicycles, games and chinaware. But cotton yarn and cotton piece goods are still banned.

Came From England

English walnuts, native only to Asia and southeastern Europe, are so-called because they were introduced to the United States from England, where they have been grown since 1562.

It is estimated that about 10,000 oil wells drilled in the United States each year are "dry holes" and do not reach oil.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was just given the 100 year Anniversary (1853-1953) Golden Book of the Temple Emanuel on Abeel street by the Temple historian, Edwin L. Wetterhahn. Going through its pages brought back many happy memories from my first Sunday School days when my father used to bring me over on the Skillypot to the Temple. In those days, the pictures of Noah's Ark looked to me like the Skillypot and I wondered how all those animals, such as the big elephants I saw in the circus parades in front of my father's store could get on such a little boat like the Riverside.

Rabbi M. Eckstein, I think was my first Rabbi in Sunday School, then in the 1920's Rabbi L. Brav came to the Temple. He was the best natured person and used to sport a cane which I liked to hide in the store. He never became angry with me but my father did. Rabbi Brav often visited my grandparents with us in Port Ewen on Sundays as we were living in Rondout. I remember Rabbi Brav was once flinging his cane up in the air near my grandmother's pear tree and suddenly it hooked on and we had to get someone good at climbing trees to go up and get it. He laughed and laughed. Rabbi Brav was one of our best friends and spent much time in my father's store. He saved all his cigarette coupons so I could get some nice spoons. He had intentions of becoming a Spanish teacher in college and as far as we know, he arrived at his desired vocation for he used to study far into the night while in Kingston.

I also remember well, Rabbi B. M. Kaplan who also visited my grandparents in Port Ewen and often discussed various international subjects and played chess with my grandfather. My grandparents were not members of the Temple, but while they lived, the Rabbis of the Temple being friends of my father visited with us in Port Ewen. As I remember, Rabbi Kaplan was later appointed chaplain of West Point.

As time went on and I grew up and joined the Sisterhood of the Temple and in time became secretary to Mrs. Ronder and Mrs. S. Mann, presidents of the Sisterhood, I think I compiled the first typewritten list of Sisterhood members, which carbon copies became useful for social events. Later taught arts and crafts in Sunday School under the able leadership of Rabbi Herbert Bloom. My subject was strictly religious arts and crafts

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was just given the 100 year Anniversary (1853-1953) Golden Book of the Temple Emanuel on Abeel street by the Temple historian, Edwin L. Wetterhahn. Going through its pages brought back many happy memories from my first Sunday School days when my father used to bring me over on the Skillypot to the Temple. In those days, the pictures of Noah's Ark looked to me like the Skillypot and I wondered how all those animals, such as the big elephants I saw in the circus parades in front of my father's store could get on such a little boat like the Riverside.

Rabbi M. Eckstein, I think was my first Rabbi in Sunday School, then in the 1920's Rabbi L. Brav came to the Temple. He was the best natured person and used to sport a cane which I liked to hide in the store. He never became angry with me but my father did. Rabbi Brav often visited my grandparents with us in Port Ewen on Sundays as we were living in Rondout. I remember Rabbi Brav was once flinging his cane up in the air near my grandmother's pear tree and suddenly it hooked on and we had to get someone good at climbing trees to go up and get it. He laughed and laughed. Rabbi Brav was one of our best friends and spent much time in my father's store. He saved all his cigarette coupons so I could get some nice spoons. He had intentions of becoming a Spanish teacher in college and as far as we know, he arrived at his desired vocation for he used to study far into the night while in Kingston.

I also remember well, Rabbi B. M. Kaplan who also visited my grandparents in Port Ewen and often discussed various international subjects and played chess with my grandfather. My grandparents were not members of the Temple, but while they lived, the Rabbis of the Temple being friends of my father visited with us in Port Ewen. As I remember, Rabbi Kaplan was later appointed chaplain of West Point.

As time went on and I grew up and joined the Sisterhood of the Temple and in time became secretary to Mrs. Ronder and Mrs. S. Mann, presidents of the Sisterhood, I think I compiled the first typewritten list of Sisterhood members, which carbon copies became useful for social events. Later taught arts and crafts in Sunday School under the able leadership of Rabbi Herbert Bloom. My subject was strictly religious arts and crafts with sandbox and shadow box exhibits, which were fun to do.

The booklet also recalls to my mind such ardent Temple workers as the late Sarah and Sam Riber. Sam was a great showman, as most folks remember, and added much talent to the Temple shows. Sarah was great for running her famous roast beef suppers and card parties. The late Aaron Myers also did his bit in the shows. As no organization can exist just from itself and its members, it needs the ouside support of folks like Judge John M. Cashin, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly and many others who spent hours rehearsing for the famous Temple shows which always played to a packed house. A 100 years is an excellent record but no doubt it would take pages and pages to record all the names of people who in some way made it possible because of their personal interest, talent and time, to keep the Temple going for the past century.

McCarthy Thinks Priority Senator Can Get Lot Done

Dallas, Tex., June 4 (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R.-Wisc.) says he thinks a senator with a lot of seniority can get as much done over a long period as any President can in his two permitted terms.

The senator denied presidential ambitions in talking to newsmen yesterday.

McCarthy refused to say where he had been when he returned here yesterday. His trip apparently was a vacation to the Mexican ranches of Dallas millionaire Clint Muchison.

But the senator talked freely about other matters. He denied any plans to be married at this time. He repeated his charge that the British and French have been supplying war materials to the enemy.

On his own ambitions, McCarthy said he had none beyond his seat in the Senate.

"If you get into the Senate at an early age," he said, "and get a lot of seniority, you can get as much done over a longer period as any President can. The President has greater power, but can serve only two terms." McCarthy was 37 when elected to the Senate.

Eases Japanese Tariff

Hong Kong (AP)—This crown colony of Britain has lifted restrictions on the imports of a wide variety of Japanese goods. Listed free from restriction are rayon yarns, household utensils, enamel ware, toys, cigarette lighters, fountain pens, pencils, bicycles, games and chinaware. But cotton yarn and cotton piece goods are still banned.

Came From England

English walnuts, native only to Asia and southeastern Europe, are so-called because they were introduced to the United States from England, where they have been grown since 1562.

It is estimated that about 10,000 oil wells drilled in the United States each year are "dry holes" and do not reach oil.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Weekly Food Review

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

Pork chop prices neared the dollar-a-pound mark in many of the nation's food stores this week but beef continued a bargain item.

Despite some stiffening at the wholesale price level, some of the larger food chains featured weekend specials in rib roasts, pot roast, sirloin and chuck with prices marked down as much as 10 cents a pound.

Attractive Buys

Budget-minded shoppers also found frying chickens an attractive buy on many meat counters around the country while seafood items — mainly halibut steaks, haddock fillets, lobster, crabmeat and smelts — were heavily promoted in some eastern cities.

Pork prices, already high in comparison with other meats, moved still higher this week—in some instances by as much as 14 cents a pound.

However, some cities reported lower prices for bacon and smoked picnic hams.

Lamb prices advanced moderately.

Dairy Prices Low

Dairy items — milk, butter, cheese and ice cream—were headlined by the Department of Agriculture as the best food buys of the week. Supplies are plentiful and dairy herd production is at a high level, it was noted.

Egg prices inched up at the wholesale level but no significant increases were reported at retail in major U. S. cities.

Fruits and vegetables from California were featured on many produce counters around the country. Best buys included California oranges of both the navel and valencia type and California white potatoes. California plums, grapes and apricots began to put in an appearance in distant markets but with the season not yet at its peak, prices continued relatively high. Good buys from other major growing areas included watermelons from Florida, strawberries from Long Island, N. Y., and radishes from New Jersey.

Fruits Promoted

The season for Florida oranges was just about over, but limes were plentiful and cheap, and good buys were still to be found in limes and rhubarb.

Among other heavily promoted produce items were canteloupe and new cabbage.

Food dealers said retail prices of pork can be expected to go still higher and that prices of meat generally will probably rise in the next few weeks.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index climbed to a nine-month high this week, it was pointed out, and price rises for hogs, steers and lambs accounted for much of the increase.

New York, June 3 (AP)—The Broadway Theatre, along with playgoers, may be on the threshold of a new era of cheaper tickets, permission to smoke and a chance to buy a drink. One provision would allow construction of theatres within office buildings or apartment houses, thus opening up a chance for added revenue for building owners and lower rentals for theatre managers. Player Shows How To Make 'Swindle'

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The Mississippi Valley Regional Tournament will be held in St. Louis next weekend, as a sort of preview for the National Championships that are scheduled to be held in St. Louis two months later. No tournament in that part of the country would be complete without my friend, Bobby Nails, of Kansas City, and I am looking forward to seeing him at both tournaments.

As a defender, Bobby Nails has a way of making cruel plays with an air of utter innocence. His play in today's hand, for example, was a typical Nails "swindle."

Holding the West cards, Nails opened the four of spades. East put up the jack of spades, and South won with the king.

South naturally led the deuce of diamonds next, and Bobby innocently produced the queen of diamonds.

Perhaps there are players with enough strength of character (or with a suspicious enough nature) to resist such a temptation. The actual South player didn't hesitate for a second. He played the king of diamonds from the dummy and bit his nails when East discarded. (He bit his own nails, not Bobby's.)

Declarer could make only three diamond tricks and therefore had no real play for nine tricks at no-trump. He actually managed to take only seven tricks, whereas correct play would have given him 10 tricks.

Incidently, the correct play for South isn't too easy to find. When declarer leads the first diamond from his hand, even if West plays low, declarer must play a low diamond from the dummy.

If both hands happen to follow to the first rounds of diamonds, South can regain the lead and run the rest of dummy's diamonds. If East shows out on the first round of diamonds, as would be the case in this hand, declarer can take the marked finesse at the next trick.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, June 3—Mrs. Fred Steixner spent Tuesday in New York where she attended a reunion luncheon of former Metropolitan Insurance Company employes. Mrs. Steixner worked for Metropolitan for 21 years.

Miss Lynn Janick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Janick, is recovering from the German measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ramsell and children, Margaret Mary and Richard, have returned to their home here after spending nine months in White Plains. Ramsell has received a transfer from a Grand Union store in White Plains where he was employed to one of the company's stores in Kingston. He expects to work in the new Albany avenue store when it is completed.

The Onteora Hose Company met in the church hall Monday night. About 15 members were present. Reginald Every, Sr., president of the fire company, served refreshments to the members. The firemen decided to start clearing the land for the firehouse. Frank Carle, chairman of the building committee, proposed that the building be several feet longer than had first been planned. It was also decided that a refund of membership dues be made to Joseph Haver, whose residence was declared to be out of the district by the Board of Fire Commissioners.

The men and women of St. Francis de Sales Parish held a joint meeting in the parish hall Monday night. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the forthcoming annual fair at Phoenicia. It was decided that the fair be held this year August 13, 14 and 15. William Malloy of Phoenicia was appointed general chairman. Mrs. Elizabeth Summerville of Chichester, Mrs. Etta Hannigan of Phoenicia and Mrs. Marianne Umhey of Mt. Tremper were appointed co-chairladies. Father William Galvin presided at the meeting, with Fathey Cornelius Hayes, Dr. Voss and Eugene Gormley acting as advisors.

Player Shows How To Make 'Swindle'

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The Mississippi Valley Regional Tournament will be held in St. Louis next weekend, as a sort of preview for the National Championships that are scheduled to be held in St. Louis two months later. No tournament in that part of the country would be complete without my friend, Bobby Nails, of Kansas City, and I am looking forward to seeing him at both tournaments.

As a defender, Bobby Nails has a way of making cruel plays with an air of utter innocence. His play in today's hand, for example, was a typical Nails "swindle."

Holding the West cards, Nails opened the four of spades. East put up the jack of spades, and South won with the king.

South naturally led the deuce of diamonds next, and Bobby innocently produced the queen of diamonds.

Perhaps there are players with enough strength of character (or with a suspicious enough nature) to resist such a temptation. The actual South player didn't hesitate for a second. He played the king of diamonds from the dummy and bit his nails when East discarded. (He bit his own nails, not Bobby's.)

Declarer could make only three diamond tricks and therefore had no real play for nine tricks at no-trump. He actually managed to take only seven tricks, whereas correct play would have given him 10 tricks.

Incidently, the correct play for South isn't too easy to find. When declarer leads the first diamond from his hand, even if West plays low, declarer must play a low diamond from the dummy.

If both hands happen to follow to the first rounds of diamonds, South can regain the lead and run the rest of dummy's diamonds. If East shows out on the first round of diamonds, as would be the case in this hand, declarer can take the marked finesse at the next trick.

The Onteora Hose Company met in the church hall Monday night. About 15 members were present. Reginald Every, Sr., president of the fire company, served refreshments to the members. The firemen decided to start clearing the land for the firehouse. Frank Carle, chairman of the building committee, proposed that the building be several feet longer than had first been planned. It was also decided that a refund of membership dues be made to Joseph Haver, whose residence was declared to be out of the district by the Board of Fire Commissioners.

The men and women of St. Francis de Sales Parish held a joint meeting in the parish hall Monday night. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the forthcoming annual fair at Phoenicia. It was decided that the fair be held this year August 13, 14 and 15. William Malloy of Phoenicia was appointed general chairman. Mrs. Elizabeth Summerville of Chichester, Mrs. Etta Hannigan of Phoenicia and Mrs. Marianne Umhey of Mt. Tremper were appointed co-chairladies. Suggest Smokers Cough Before They Take Anesthetics

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, June 4 (AP)—A safety test for cigarette smokers before they take anesthetics for operations was recommended today to the American Medical Association convention.

The test is to cough, to make sure the breathing airways are clear, or, for heavy smokers, to keep coughing until they are clear.

The test, and reasons for it, were described by Drs. Barnett A. Greene and S. Berkowitz of Brooklyn.

Smoking and especially the inhaling of cigarette smoke, is a main cause of bronchitis, or inflammation of the breathing airways, they said. Smoking is four to seven times more common cause of bronchitis than anything else, including various infections.

Can Be Serious

The bronchitis can lead to numerous complications during or after taking of anesthetics, even those given by vein and not breathed in, like ether, Greene said. Sometimes, it can cause death, due to phlegm blocking the breathing tubes.

Anyone smoking more than a pack of cigarettes a day is likely to have such bronchitis, the doctors said. Two packs a day is fairly sure to produce it.

The cough test is a safety measure. The airways are clear if the cough is a single event, not particularly easy to do. An abnormal cough is one which is self-propagating, leading to more coughs, either "wet" or "dry." Troubles can be avoided by asking patients to cough, to make sure the airways are clear.

Pigeons Not Welcome

Porterville, Calif., June 4 (AP)—It's open season on pigeons at the Rev. Carl Stocking's First Methodist Church. The minister has been issued a firearms permit to dissuade a flock of the friendly birds from attending his sermons. The birds, long-time residents of the area, moved into the church recently when their former home, a barn across the street, was torn down. In applying for the permit, the pastor explained the pigeons are in disfavor with the congregation because they have committed numerous minor indiscretions and have made use of the church's outdoor drinking fountain a "hazardous experience."

Suspicious of Peet

Berlin, June 4 (AP)—The U. S. High Commission newspaper Neue Zeitung said today that East Germany's Communists are getting suspicious of John Peet, former British correspondent who went over to the Reds three years ago. Neue Zeitung said Peet has been questioned repeatedly in the last few days by the Central Party commission of the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party. The report said the Briton was suspected of having maintained secret connections with the West. Peet went to the Soviet sector of Berlin in June, 1950, and asked for asylum.

Suggest Smokers Cough Before They Take Anesthetics

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, June 4 (AP)—A safety test for cigarette smokers before they take anesthetics for operations was recommended today to the American Medical Association convention.

The test is to cough, to make sure the breathing airways are clear, or, for heavy smokers, to keep coughing until they are clear.

The test, and reasons for it, were described by Drs. Barnett A. Greene and S. Berkowitz of Brooklyn.

Smoking and especially the inhaling of cigarette smoke, is a main cause of bronchitis, or inflammation of the breathing airways, they said. Smoking is four to seven times more common cause of bronchitis than anything else, including various infections.

Can Be Serious

The bronchitis can lead to numerous complications during or after taking of anesthetics, even those given by vein and not breathed in, like ether, Greene said. Sometimes, it can cause death, due to phlegm blocking the breathing tubes.

Anyone smoking more than a pack of cigarettes a day is likely to have such bronchitis, the doctors said. Two packs a day is fairly sure to produce it.

The cough test is a safety measure. The airways are clear if the cough is a single event, not particularly easy to do. An abnormal cough is one which is self-propagating, leading to more coughs, either "wet" or "dry." Troubles can be avoided by asking patients to cough, to make sure the airways are clear.

Pigeons Not Welcome

Porterville, Calif., June 4 (AP)—It's open season on pigeons at the Rev. Carl Stocking's First Methodist Church. The minister has been issued a firearms permit to dissuade a flock of the friendly birds from attending his sermons. The birds, long-time residents of the area, moved into the church recently when their former home, a barn across the street, was torn down. In applying for the permit, the pastor explained the pigeons are in disfavor with the congregation because they have committed numerous minor indiscretions and have made use of the church's outdoor drinking fountain a "hazardous experience."

Suspicious of Peet

Berlin, June 4 (AP)—The U. S. High Commission newspaper Neue Zeitung said today that East Germany's Communists are getting suspicious of John Peet, former British correspondent who went over to the Reds three years ago. Neue Zeitung said Peet has been questioned repeatedly in the last few days by the Central Party commission of the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party. The report said the Briton was suspected of having maintained secret connections with the West. Peet went to the Soviet sector of Berlin in June, 1950, and asked for asylum.

Thailand Rain Making

Bangkok (AP) — The Thailand government has approved a plan to introduce artificial rain in the rice-growing areas to beat the whims of Nature. Director-General of Irrigation Momluang Chichart Khamphu, however, warned that rainmaking was at present in the experimental stage and it may have to be adapted to suit conditions in Thailand.

How True

I never spied a flying saucer,
I never hope to spy one,
But I will neither hum nor haw, sir—
I'd rather spy than fly one.
—W. C. B.

Father—I don't like that new boyfriend of yours at all.

Daughter—Why don't you be more tolerant, Father, and make allowance for John's shortcomings?

Father—It's not his shortcomings I object to, it's his long stayings!

A Policyholder—I see you're driving a new car.

Insurance Salesman — Yes. I tried to sell an insurance policy to an automobile salesmen.

She—Dearest, will you love me when I'm old and ugly?

He—Of course I do.

Jane—My Scotch boy friend sent me his picture yesterday.

Joan—How does he look?

Jane—I don't know yet. I haven't had it developed.

Professor—If molecules can be split into atoms, and atoms broken up into electrons, can electrons be split up any further?

Student—Well, professor, you might try mailing them to someone in a package marked "Fragile."

Talking with an Ohio farmer, I asked if fertilizer would stimulate a certain plant's growth. "Can't say for sure," he replied. "I never been able to figure out whether the stuff actually stimulates the plants or whether it's just so downright repulsive that they tries to grow away from it."—Contributed by Richard Schmit.

A small boy came home from school one day proudly exhibiting a book which he said he had won in a natural history contest.

Mother—How did you do that?

Boy—Teacher asked how many legs an ostrich had and I said three.

Mother—But an ostrich has only two legs.

Boy—Well, all the rest of the class said four.

No Munich . . .

a new dimension to the "fireside chat" invented by Franklin D. Roosevelt and adapted for radio and television, now and then, by Harry S. Truman.

Eisenhower's TV and radio audience saw and heard the President, a little fidgety at first but calm as you please later, lean on his desk and talk . . . tell them, with a reference to the 1938 concessions, to Adolf Hitler that sowed the seeds of the last world war and became a symbol of appeasement:

"There is going to be no new Munich and at the same time there is going to be no risk of a general war, because a modern war would be too horrible to contemplate."

Then they saw him, rather like a principal introducing the teachers on parent's visiting day, introduce the four department heads.

George M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, spoke first. He said—as he has said before—the budget should be balanced a year from now unless the Russians upset the applecart. And that, if Congress keeps the excess profits tax for another six months, there'll be a tax cut for everybody at the beginning of next year.

"Mr. secretary," said Eisenhower, "I endorse every single word you say."

Introduces Others

Then Eisenhower introduced the others to say their pieces—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare; Secretary of Agriculture Benson, promising a "grass roots" approach to the farm surplus problem; Atty. Gen. Brownell, promising to uproot every bad security risk in the government "in the next few months."

Many a member of Congress watched this panel production—which, the President said, is the first of a series.

Republicans generally found it Grade A.

Democrats were less ready to cheer.

Eisenhower, of course, was the star of the show for all that he sought to share the limelight with Mrs. Hobby and her male colleagues.

He stressed the family theme from the first—said the government, like any family, is concerned with the security and happiness, and must see "the roof is not leaking and the children are getting educated."

Refers to Parley

Speaking of security problems, he said, with reference to his forthcoming talks with Prime Minister Churchill and whatever premier the French have chosen by that time:

"I am going over to Bermuda to meet with some of our friends and talk over these things. But remember, in these vast problems that affect every one of our lives, there is no thought that you can cut the knots; you must unite them slowly and laboriously."

Eisenhower went on, interrupting himself to call on the various cabinet members to a discussion of other problems:

The deficit: "During 17 of the past 20 years we have gone into debt. Borrowing cheapens money. That is like water in your coffee."

Economy: "These expensive military establishments are going to be maintained at the most economic way possible. You are going to get one dollar's worth for every dollar we spend. I am going to keep that promise."

The excess profits tax: "It is inequitable, it is unjust, it is clumsy, and it is awkward. But . . . it must not be taken off until we can reduce the individual income taxes."

Agriculture: "We are going to have stability in farm income and we are going to do it with no farmer being taken over by the government. . . . It is unthinkable—unconscionable as I see it—that the United States should have wheat moulding and crops spoiling and people—friends of ours—should be starving in the world."

Government employe security: "We go after the weeds of disloyalty but we don't want to uproot a single good plant. . . . The great mass of your federal employes are a wonderful, dedicated group of men and women whose jobs are going to be protected."

Small Boys Smear New Garage Walls

Local detective work continues obsessed with juvenile incident, and one reported today indicates that not all in the continued wave of mischief is confined to teenagers.

Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons were called upon to investigate, among other complaints, one that a wall of the new county garage on Quarry street, had come in for some unscheduled painting.

Their trail led, they said, to two boys, one eight and the other nine years old. They were charged with smearing red paint over a wall of the garage built in concrete block.

Windows Broken

The detectives also traced the theft of a harmonica and a silver dollar from a local home to a 13-year-old boy. The loot was recovered.

Police headquarters was notified yesterday that several windows of the Dobler Brewing Company's building 40 Bruyn avenue, had been broken during the night. This appeared to be more wanton mischief.

Ives Is Elected

Geneva, Switzerland, June 4 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) was elected president of the 36th annual conference of the International Labor Organization by acclamation here today. Pakistan's Labor Minister A. M. Malik proposed Ives to the 66-nation conference and former French Premier Paul Ramadier and British labor leader Alfred Roberts urged he be named. Of the four Soviet bloc members of ILO, only Poland was represented at the opening meeting of the conference. Chief Polish delegate Leon Chajn and his six-man delegation sat silently through the nomination and acclamation of Ives but politely applauded his presidential address.

No Munich . . .

a new dimension to the "fireside chat" invented by Franklin D. Roosevelt and adapted for radio and television, now and then, by Harry S. Truman.

Eisenhower's TV and radio audience saw and heard the President, a little fidgety at first but calm as you please later, lean on his desk and talk . . . tell them, with a reference to the 1938 concessions, to Adolf Hitler that sowed the seeds of the last world war and became a symbol of appeasement:

"There is going to be no new Munich and at the same time there is going to be no risk of a general war, because a modern war would be too horrible to contemplate."

Then they saw him, rather like a principal introducing the teachers on parent's visiting day, introduce the four department heads.

George M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, spoke first. He said—as he has said before—the budget should be balanced a year from now unless the Russians upset the applecart. And that, if Congress keeps the excess profits tax for another six months, there'll be a tax cut for everybody at the beginning of next year.

"Mr. secretary," said Eisenhower, "I endorse every single word you say."

Introduces Others

Then Eisenhower introduced the others to say their pieces—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare; Secretary of Agriculture Benson, promising a "grass roots" approach to the farm surplus problem; Atty. Gen. Brownell, promising to uproot every bad security risk in the government "in the next few months."

Many a member of Congress watched this panel production—which, the President said, is the first of a series.

Republicans generally found it, Grade A.

Democrats were less ready to cheer.

Eisenhower, of course, was the star of the show for all that he sought to share the limelight with Mrs. Hobby and her male colleagues.

He stressed the family theme from the first—said the government, like any family, is concerned with the security and happiness, and must see "the roof is not leaking and the children are getting educated."

Refers to Parley

Speaking of security problems, he said, with reference to his forthcoming talks with Prime Minister Churchill and whatever premier the French have chosen by that time:

"I am going over to Bermuda to meet with some of our friends and talk over these things. But remember, in these vast problems that affect every one of our lives, there is no thought that you can cut the knots; you must unite them slowly and laboriously."

Eisenhower went on, interrupting himself to call on the various cabinet members to a discussion of other problems:

The deficit: "During 17 of the past 20 years we have gone into debt. Borrowing cheapens money. That is like water in your coffee."

Economy: "These expensive military establishments are going to be maintained at the most economic way possible. You are going to get one dollar's worth for every dollar we spend. I am going to keep that promise."

The excess profits tax: "It is inequitable, it is unjust, it is clumsy, and it is awkward. But . . . it must not be taken off until we can reduce the individual income taxes."

Agriculture: "We are going to have stability in farm income and we are going to do it with no farmer being taken over by the government. . . . It is unthinkable—unconscionable as I see it—that the United States should have wheat moulding and crops spoiling and people—friends of ours—should be starving in the world."

Government employe security: "We go after the weeds of disloyalty but we don't want to uproot a single good plant. . . . The great mass of your federal employes are a wonderful, dedicated group of men and women whose jobs are going to be protected."

Small Boys Smear New Garage Walls

Local detective work continues obsessed with juvenile incident, and one reported today indicates that not all in the continued wave of mischief is confined to teenagers.

Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons were called upon to investigate, among other complaints, one that a wall of the new county garage on Quarry street, had come in for some unscheduled painting.

Their trail led, they said, to two boys, one eight and the other nine years old. They were charged with smearing red paint over a wall of the garage built in concrete block.

Windows Broken

The detectives also traced the theft of a harmonica and a silver dollar from a local home to a 13-year-old boy. The loot was recovered.

Police headquarters was notified yesterday that several windows of the Dobler Brewing Company's building 40 Bruyn avenue, had been broken during the night. This appeared to be more wanton mischief.

Ives Is Elected

Geneva, Switzerland, June 4 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) was elected president of the 36th annual conference of the International Labor Organization by acclamation here today. Pakistan's Labor Minister A. M. Malik proposed Ives to the 66-nation conference and former French Premier Paul Ramadier and British labor leader Alfred Roberts urged he be named. Of the four Soviet bloc members of ILO, only Poland was represented at the opening meeting of the conference. Chief Polish delegate Leon Chajn and his six-man delegation sat silently through the nomination and acclamation of Ives but politely applauded his presidential address.

Adding variety to the show will be an exhibit of flower paintings by well-known artists.

The classifications for arrangements are as follows: 1. Miniature garden, 2. Miniature vases (not over six inches), 3. Men only, 4. Children's corner (accessories permitted), 5. Flowers as I like them, 6. Four roses (accessories permitted),7. All white, 8. Antique containers, 9. Wild flowers, 10. Specimens and house plants, 11. State Rests Case

Bridgeport, Conn., June 4 (AP)—The state rested its case in the first degree murder trial of John B. Donahue, 20, Arlington, Mass., reformatory parolee, at 10.16 a. m. (EST) today. The action came moments after Judge Thomas E. Troland and a group of jurors peered through a microscope in Superior Court at two bullets, one of which the state claims killed State Policeman Ernest J. Morse, 33, of New Haven. Donahue is charged with the fatal shooting of the state trooper on the Merritt Parkway in Trumbull last Feb. 13 after Morse had halted Donahue for speeding.

Issued on the basis of sealed indictments returned by the grand jury on Monday, the bench warrants signed by County Judge John M. Cashin charged DeAngelis with second degree rape, perjury in the second degree, and two counts of violation of Section 483, Subdivision 2 of the Penal Law; and charged Perry with violation of Section 483, Subdivision 2, which deals with impairing the morals of a minor.

So He Didn't Win

New York, June 4 (AP)—By the bare margin of a horse's head, Henry J. Way Jr., 43, was in trouble with the law today—and his mother was minus her savings. Police say Way, hoping for a sure profit, had drawn $16,000 of his mother's savings from a bank, and bet it at the track on highly favored Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby. The horse lost by a head to Dark Star. If Native Dancer had lived up to expectations, Way would have won 70 cents on $1—a total of $11,200—instead of being held in court yesterday in $5,000 bail on a grand larceny charge. A detective signed the complaint, after Way's 70-year-old mother refused to do so.

As Pegler Sees It

handicap of truth, fairness or taste.

There was a woman called Dorothy Parker who wrote witty verse and dramatic short stories with resounding success a few years ago whose greatest renown, however, was earned by remarks which were not at all clever but simply shocking. I met her only once and that was more than enough, for she sat at a table in the old Lafayette playing some game, cards or dominoes, with a male of the same set, expressing herself in dirty words which, to me in later years, as her fame spread, thoroughly justified her strange distinction. The bon mot which seems to have been her social masterpiece was her announcement at a mixed gathering that she was going to the bathroom.

Whatever merits "What Price Glory?" may have had were obscured by the profanity which was its best sales quality. This venture beat down our moral inhibitions so that, save in a few cities where decency still lingers, "Tobacco Road" was calmly accepted. It would be hard to imagine anything dirtier than "Tobacco Road" and it ran for years and still does, fitfully. Actually, the talk and the moral standards, except the incest, of "Tobacco Road,, were the prevailing practical standard of some of the arty colonies of Reds and fellow travelers away-from-it-all in Connecticut and jersey and up the Hudson.

A "hell" or a "damn" dropped into a stately article used to have amusing effects because it was startling. This was, I suppose, an adaptation of the old "'hell,' said the ditchess—" form. But it has been overdone and lost emphasis.

Nancy Astor's standards have prevailed against the old good taste of England. She gets away with conduct that would be shocking in others but it isn't clever and it is rude. The aristocracy accept, and, I dare say, admire her, because she has been so stoutly British when she might have quit them.

They laugh at and with her as an interesting eccentric, but their spirit is weary. I doubt that we can say that we are any better off.

So He Didn't Win

New York, June 4 (AP)—By the are margin of a horse's head, Henry J. Way Jr., 43, was in rouble with the law today—and is mother was minus her savings. Police say Way, hoping for a sure rofit, had drawn $16,000 of his nother's savings from a bank, and bet it at the track on highly favored Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby. The horse lost by a head to Dark Star. If Native Dancer had lived up to expectations, Way would have won 70 cents on $1—a total of $11,200—instead of being held in court yesterday in $5,000 bail on a grand larceny charge. A detective signed the complaint, after Way's 70-year-old mother refused to do so.

The team expects to receive uniforms during the week, so that Sunday they will go on the field dressed in gold and black shirts, with black caps with gold lettering.

Providing enough interest is shown, Crookston plans to hold the boys together as a permanent club and engage in basketball and other sports throughout the year. The boys on the team have engaged in various activities to help raise funds for the team. They would like to have everyone out to the ball game Sunday afternoon.

Mothers' Emotions Affect Unborn Babes, Is Report

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Writer)

New York, June 3 (AP) — A pregnant woman's emotions may really "mark" her unborn baby, making the child neurotic, Dr. William S. Kroger of Chicago said today.

The infant may become predisposed to psychosomatic ailments, the complaints born of emotional upsets rather than actual physical troubles, he said.

This kind of effect is not the same as the old wives' tales that if a woman is frightened by a spider, for example, her baby will have birthmarks. It is something different.

Kroger, gynecologist of the Chicago Medical School, was telling the American Medical Association Convention of some psychosomatic aspects of gynecology and obstetrics.

Can Affect Embryo

Recently, he said, scientists have found that various effects from a mother's physical and emotional health can lastingly affect the growing embryo, or unborn baby.

"In other words, disturbing maternal emotions and behavior may produce a neurotic fetus (unborn baby) with a predisposition toward a wide variety of psychosomatic diseases," he said.

By present evidence, he said, the first few weeks or months of a baby's life are more important than any other period in shaping personality.

Some specialists, Kroger continued, think that bottle-feeding of a baby may lead to psychosomatic ailments, that breast feeding is better.

"I believe it makes little if any difference how or when a baby receives nutrition, as long as it is held and cuddled by a loving mother," he declared.

saw fighting for Luke's Castle. There ROKs who drove the Reds back late Wednesday were driven back farther than before by a smashing Communist counter-attack.

At last report, the North Koreans held about half of the intricate castle defenses.

Allied warplanes flew scores of missions again today in close-support of troops on the battleline.

During the night U. S. Superforts hit the battlefront with their biggest assault in nearly a year. Nineteen B-29s unloaded 190 tons of bombs on Red targets between Chorwon and Kumhwa in the Iron Triangle sector of the central front.

Heavy clouds and low haze obliterated the battleline from the air but the air force said its fighter-bombers used electronic sighting to drop thousands of pounds of bombs on the east-central and eastern fronts.

A handful of Sabre jets braved the weather and prowled North Korean skies. No MIGs came out to fight, returning pilots reported.

Red Theatres Critized

Moscow, June 4 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda severely criticized two of the Soviet Union's outstanding drama theatres today for failing to be a model to other Russian theatres in developing new plays. The paper said all kinds of good new plays are needed. The editorial blasts were aimed at the Moscow Art and Moscow Maly Theatres. Pravda complained that playwrights do not get close enough to life, that their plays too frequently do not have a ring of reality about them. "It is time for the theatres and dramatists to remember," Pravda declared, "that no matter how great is the love of the audience for the theatre, they will not attend bad and boring plays."

Advice for Railroaders

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the New York Central freight station, 545 Broadway, June 10, to assist the railroad worker, his wife, widow or survivors in retirement and survivor problems and for answering inquiries, the board announced today. The representative will be in an office on the ground floor from 10 a. m., to 4 p. m.

bombs. Moreover, it may open the way to using all supplies of an element called thorium which is even more plentiful than uranium-238.

Telling of the process worked out in a special reactor or furnace at Arco, Dean said:

"The reactor is operating in such a way that it is burning up uranium-235, and, in the process, it is changing non-fissionable uranium (U-238) into fissionable plutonium at a rate that is at least equal to the rate of which uranium-235 is being consumed."

He said the new development, and other "factors" have "combined to bring us to the crossroads in atomic power policy that we have now reached.

"The last remaining obstacle," he said, "is to learn how to build atomic power plants so cheaply that the power they produce will be competitive with that from conventional fuels. The policy problem that faces us is to determine how this cost-cutting job can best be done."

To that end he renewed and expanded, the Atomic Energy Commission's recent recommendations for letting private enterprise enter more freely into atomic development.

Cut in Employes Reported

Washington, June 4 (AP)—A net cut of 22,418 in civilian employes of the Defense Department during April was reported today by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), chairman of the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures. Byrd reported a net decline in civilian employment in all branches of the government of 24,029, which he said was the largest single-month drop since the Korean war began in mid-1950.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Bruce Herrick No Roving Reporter, In Town 65 Years

Woodstock, June 4 — Over the period of years since this village has gained eminence as an art colony, there have been many newspaper correspondents covering the activities of the township. Bruce Herrick is one of these, distinguished not only for his length of service, but for the fact that he has, before his retirement, written for nearly every publication in the area.

Herrick, one-time Freeman correspondent, also has covered the same beat for the old Argus, the Catskill Mountain Star of Saugerties, and the defunct Woodstock Press.

Unlike the majority of newspaper folk who derive satisfaction from the roving nature of their assignments, Herrick has lived for 65 years in this town, and to narrow it down, all of the years on the same road. The small, neat bungalow on Tannery Brook road in which he and his wife, Esther Herrick live, is but a stone's throw from the house to which he came as a seven-year-old boy.

His father Thomas Herrick was proprietor of the Herrick House, one of the best-known boarding houses in the area, and his grandfather was James P. Herrick, a wheelwright who worked for Henry Peper in his shop on Mill road, now the site of Peper's Garage.

It was his father, Thomas, who enlarged the small farm cottage of Herrick House by adding two upper stories to form the present building of the Tannery Brook House. He enlarged the hostelry to accommodate the growing number of young artists who came to attend the Art Students League when it first began to attract painters to the village. It was then still known as Herrick House and young Bruce became correspondent for the Woodstock Press, covering the League and its summer activities. During the winter months he worked at Snyder, Turton and Wells, silversmiths.

Was First Librarian

Along with writing about the village and its celebrities, Bruce Herrick was appointed first librarian in the town, when the library was located in the building recently vacated by the Nook. He is also the veteran stamp collector of the town, and has throughout the years assisted the Rev. Harvey I. Todd with the stamp club of the Boy Scouts. Herrick himself has an extensive European as well as American collection of stamps which he started to assemble in 1903.

With two books of verse to his credit, the last published some years ago by the Woodstock Publishing Company through the late Edward Perkins, Herrick is also the author of a play titled The First Town Meeting which was enacted several years ago at a Home Bureau Folklore meeting at the Woodstock Library. Playing the various roles in the play were the descendants of the former villagers Herrick dramatized.

Married to the sister of an artist, Ester Ault Herrick, whose brother was the late George Ault, and whose father introduced American printing ink to England in 1899, Herrick through his writings helped to bring Woodstock to the attention of many as an art colony and as a summer resort. He wrote the text for a booklet on Woodstock published by the one-time Chamber of Commerce.

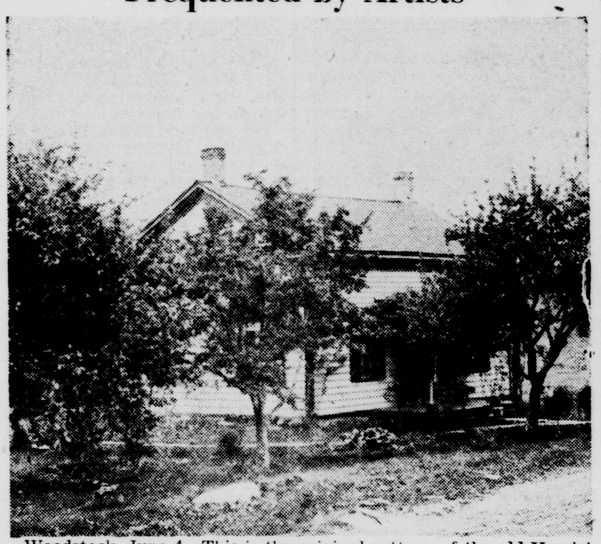
The late First Lieutenant Michael DiNapoli, of New Rochelle, brother of Arthur DiNapoli, proprietor of the Woodstock Bakery, was buried with military honors at Arlington Cemetery, May 18. Lt. DiNapoli lost his life while flying with the Radar Jet F-97, on observation over Korea.

Frequented by Artists



Woodstock, June 4—This is the original cottage of the old Herrick house which was later enlarged by Thomas Herrick and is now known as the Tannery Brook House. In early days of the art colony it housed many of Woodstock's famous artists.

Christine's Contract Is Broken by Hotel

Las Vegas, Nev., June 4 (AP)—In a letter to Christine Jorgensen beginning "Dear Sir," the hotel Sahara says it is breaking its contract for the former GI who underwent sex surgery in Denmark.

The Sahara said yesterday Jorgensen was misrepresented in the contract as a woman. Christine was scheduled to appear at the hotel as an entertainer for two weeks beginning July 14 at a salary of $12,500 a week.

Attorney John H. Drill, representing the hotel, says a contract clause states the performance will consist of "narration of her film entitled 'Denmark'." The contract is being voided under a "mistake of fact," Brill said, adding that the hotel is taking at face value statements from medical sources that Jorgensen "is not now and never can be a woman."

A Los Angeles theatre at which Christine recently appeared reported business was poor during the engagement.

Police Uncover Russian Plot, Is Newspaper Story

Mexico City, June 4 (AP)—Mexico's largest newspaper, Excelsior, reported today that Mexican police have uncovered a detailed Russian plot aimed at Communist seizure of power in Latin American countries. Success of the scheme, it said, would turn Mexico, Central and South America into "another Poland and Czechoslovakia."

The independent conservative newspaper quoted highly authoritative police sources as saying Mexico is a center of Russian efforts to build up Red fifth columns throughout Latin America. Mexican Communists and political exiles from other nations—mostly Socialists and Communists—were reported aiding in the plot.

Excelsior said its police sources reported the Russian Embassy in Mexico City controls 32 Communist cells working throughout Latin America. The embassy itself, the sources added, is working through the Polish and Czechoslovak legations here in an effort to avert suspicion.

No Strapless Gowns

Garwood, N. J., June 4 (AP)—Strapless gowns and plunging necklines may be stylish—but not for girls in the eighth grade, says the local board of education. The board warned yesterday against wearing such styles at the grade's June 15 prom at Lincoln School. Robert Laird, school superintendent, asked the board to support his request for conservative dress at the affair. Laird said he had noticed several "daring" dresses at recent school dances.

Molded Salad Is Wedding Ideal

CHAMBORD MOLDED SALAD for wedding buffet suppers boasts asparagus, egg slices and vegetables all molded in gelatin.

Want to hear about rich and wonderful food? A tender, succulent combination of fresh vegetables, combined with chopped tarragon and mayonnaise and molded with sliced hard-cooked eggs, beef, chicken or lobster, makes a regal dish for the wedding buffet.

We learned how to do it at Cafe Chambord in New York city. Famous for its de luxe French cuisine the world over, its cold salads and pate make summer dining a super experience. We watched the head chef, Marcel Grange, put these two dishes together. Here are our notes right out of Cafe Chambord's fabulous kitchen.

Molded Salad Chambord

Dice some carrots, potatoes, string beans, celery. Shell lima beans and peas. Cook all until just tender. Drain. When cold, season with salt, pepper, chopped tarragon and a few drops of lemon juice. Add ½ cup of mayonnaise. Mix well and chill.

Pour some gelatin in a metal mold. Use unflavored gelatin. Follow directions on package. Set the mold on chopped ice and turn it until the gelatin is evenly spread.

Decorate the inside of the mold with asparagus tips and sliced hard-cooked eggs. Add the vegetable salad and place in refrigerator for one hour. Then turn mold upside down on cold plate.

This can be served with cold salmon, lobster or cold ham. Serve with mayonnaise. Cold sliced beef, chicken or lobster can be substituted for the hard-cooked eggs to make the above salad.

Terrine de Canard (potted duck)

Skin 6-pound duck. Be careful not to damage the skin. Remove the two breasts. Bone legs and back and get off all the meat. Place the breasts in soup plate. Season with salt and pepper and a little allspice. If desired, pour ½ small glass brandy over them. Place in refrigerator.

Now combine all the other duck meat with 1 pound lean pork. Chop well. Combine with ½ pound fresh lard. Add the duck liver, 1 raw egg, 1 tablespoon arrowroot or cornstarch, 1 tablespoon chopped cooked shallots, 1 teaspoon fresh parsley. Season with salt, pepper and allspice. Put through meat chopper twice. If desired, add a few drops of brandy.

Use small oval earthenware casserole or bowl. Line carefully with the duck skin, pressing it close to sides. Fill half full of the chopped duck mixture. Next flatten the two breasts and lay on top. Add the remaining chopped duck mixture. Fold skin over top to cover completely.

Place the casserole or bowl in pan of water. Set in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and bake for 2½ hours. When done, place weight (2 pounds, no heavier) on top for one hour. When cold, remove all fat and fill with port wine gelatin. Chill. This will serve 12.

Truman Fans Batter

Grandview, Mo., June 4 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman "struck out" the only man he pitched to in a semi-pro baseball game at his old home town last night. Many of the 1,000 fans who turned out for the Heart of America League game between the TWA and Toedman cab teams agreed Truman wasn't facing the toughest possible batting opposition. Truman's pitch was against a former business partner, Eddie Jacobson. Jacobson obliged by missing the toss a country mile.

Attorney Plans Rosenberg Moves

New York, June 4 (AP)—A series of last-ditch legal moves to save the lives of condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today was planned by their attorney, who says he has new evidence to offer.

Its nature, however, was not disclosed.

Attorney Emanuel Bloch visited the doomed husband and wife in Sing Sing Prison's death house yesterday, and said he found them in good health and "fully aware of their possible fate and its implications."

"They know," he said, "the people of the world are looking at our country to see if justice is going to be done."

The pair, slated to die in the electric chair the night of June 18 for conspiring to betray A-bomb secrets to Russia, said yesterday the government had offered them their lives if they would "cooperate with the government" and "repudiate the truths of our innocence."

"We solemnly declare now and forever more," they said, "that we will not be coerced even under pain of death to bear false witness and to yield up to tyranny our rights as free Americans. * * *."

Would Set Aside Convictions

Bloch said he will again ask the Federal District Court to set aside the convictions on the ground of allegedly perjured testimony, and in the light of new evidence.

He said he also will ask the U. S. Court of Appeals to reverse Judge Irving R. Kaufman's latest refusal to grant a stay of execution, and for a stay pending another appeal to the Supreme Court.

As a last resort, he said, he would ask the Supreme Court directly for a stay. The court already has refused three times to review the case.

If all else fails, Bloch said, he will again ask President Eisenhower for clemency. Eisenhower previously rejected such a request.

Ministers Agree On Big Four Parley

London, June 4 (AP) — The British Commonwealth's prime ministers were reported agreed today that the Big Four's top government leaders should get together for talks soon.

The nine commonwealth heads, led by Prime Minister Churchill, are meeting here through next Monday.

Qualified informants said the eight visitors gave unanimous support at their first session yesterday to Churchill's suggestion in his May 11 foreign policy speech that the West's chief government leaders meet with the Soviets at an early date.

Churchill was expected to make much of this commonwealth backing at his upcoming conference in Bermuda with President Eisenhower and whoever heads the French government. That meeting, originally scheduled for June 17, has been delayed until France gets a new government.

U. S. Attitude

Eisenhower's administration has taken the attitude that Russia must show a sincere desire for peace through concrete action—rather than talk alone — before East-West talks are held.

The prime ministers meeting with Churchill are Robert G. Menzies of Australia, Louis St. Laurent of Canada, Dudley Senanayake of Ceylon, Jawaharlal Nehru of India, Sidney G. Holland of New Zealand, Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, Daniel F. Malan of South Africa and Sid Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia. All came here for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

Man Killed by Train

New York, June 4 (AP)—A man was killed today when he fell from the platform of the Elmhurst avenue station of the Independent station in Queens and was struck by a local train. Local and express service on the line was delayed 13 minutes while the body was being removed. The man was identified as John Arnold, 72, of 82-12 Britton avenue, Elmhurst. Police said he fell from the platform as the local train was pulling into the station.

U. S. Produces Most Petroleum

Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, lays his head on his hands on the witness table as he takes a rest during a Senate Appropriations subcommittee hearing in Washington on Air Force expenses. He was called as a witness at the hearing opening which was at 10 o'clock but by noon still had not been questioned.

Shokan

Shokan, June 4—John Alverson of Manhattan was a caller in the village Wednesday while enroute home from a business trip to Margaretville.

Local members of the Mt. Tremper Rural Cemetery Association attended the annual meeting of the organization which was held in the schoolhouse at the neighboring village recently. Plot owners who attended the meeting reported the cemetery grounds in excellent condition this year. The Mt. Pleasant burying place is located near the one time Davis Winne homestead on the north side of the Onteora Trail and Esopus Creek.

Leonard F. Ruckert returned home Wednesday after having spent several days in New York. Leonard has purchased materials for expansion work on the largest of his three rental bungalows here.

Today marks the 87th birthday of Joanna VanKleeck, Kingston resident, who was brought up in the South Olive section of the reservoir country. Birthdays falling Wednesday, June 3, included that of Robert Adsit, local K.H.S. alumnus and Boy Scout official.

Charles Curran, who has employment at West Haven, Conn., spent last weekend with his wife and son at the Rose Sampietro residence. Mrs. Curran the former Gertrude Sampietro, as executor of the Merritt Winchell Estate recently finished the work of disposing of the personal property on the Winchell farm along the Stone Ridge road at Olive Bridge, and has also sold the old stone house and adjoining 60 acres of farm land. Raymond Davis, who resides with his mother, Mrs. Stephen Davis, at Krumville, is reported to have bought the farm which bounds the Tongore Cemetery on the north and the Catskill Aqueduct on the west. The stone house according to a member of the family was built about 200 years ago by Peter Winchell who presumably was the father of James Winchell, Revolutionary War soldier from Tongore.

Eugene Lawlor and family have moved into their attractive new residence which has a rear entrance to the Lawlor general store along the Onteora Trail here.

Echo of Waterworks Days: June 4, 1913—A number of women met at the Samsonville Church hall and organized a ladies aid society with nine charter members. Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Luther Merrihew; vice president, Mrs. Willis Moore; secretary, Mrs. Don YanEtten, and treasurer, Mrs. James H. Bevier. The society will meet at the home of a member every other Wednesday.

Ads are now being placed on parking meters. Philadelphia is believed to be the first large city to try it.

Sprague Electric Gives Jobs To 100 at Its Local Factory

More than 100 Kingston and Ulster county residents are employed in the Kingston Division of Sprague Electric Company, 165-183 Cornell street, manufacturers of various types of electrical resistors, The Freeman learned during a recent tour of the plant.

According to Edward C. Craig, newly appointed plant manager, it is anticipated that approximately 350 men and women may eventually be employed in the local factory which was opened in December, 1951, following purchase of the buildings from the Scranton Lace Company.

Since the local plant was established progress has been swift, despite a number of alterations which had to be made to accommodate new techniques and machinery. Gradual expansion has brought the plant into the position of one of the city's leading industrial organizations.

The Sprague Electric Company, one of the foremost manufacturers of electrical component parts, with main offices at North Adams, Mass., was first organized in 1926 by Robert C. Sprague, present chairman of the board of directors, developing out of his experimentation with tone control for radio sets.

By 1930 the company had grown sufficiently to acquire new quarters in North Adams where today it occupies several large groups of buildings and employes more than 3,000 people.

Electrical resistors made by the local plant are found in many types of electrical equipment, such as the military plane, and require the most perfect workmanship. A careful check of all resistors is made at the local plant to insure perfect performance under all conditions of stress.

Manufactures Condensers

Sprague is one of the largest manufacturers of electrical condensers, commonly known as capacitors, and the company makes Ceroc (U. S. Trademark Reg.) which is a unique type of high temperature ceramic-coated magnet wire for use in electrical equipment such as motors and generators. They also manufacture a powerful miniature battery especially designed for use in hearing aids.

Other types of components made by Sprague include resistors, pulse networks and noise suppression filters.

Products made by Sprague may be found in many types of equipment such as radios, TV sets, refrigerators, washing machines, food mixers, vacuum cleaners, telephones, in many parts of automobiles, electrical razors, X-ray machines, airplanes, calculating machines and in many varieties of military equipment.

New Plants Established

Expansion of the number of products and the scale of production created the need for new facilities and the company established plants in Nashu, N. H., Barre and Bennington, Vt., Milwaukee, Wis., Culver City, Calif., and at Saugerties. Plans are now being made to open a plant in one of the southern states.

Many of the local supervisory staff belong to the Industrial Management Club of Kingston and two have accepted official positions in that organization. The company sponsors the Dodgers in Kingston's Little League Baseball.

Employes may take advantage of a well-formulated personnel program including group insurance, bonus plan and vacations.

In addition to Craig, the following are in charge of various plant activities and departments: David C. Cates, personnel manager; Fred R. Powers, superintendent of resistor production departments; Frank L. Donohue, chief design engineer; Wayne E. Wright, superintendent of the maintenance department and coordinator of borocarbon and other projects; John B. Dunphy, process engineer; Hollis E. Harvey, acting office manager; Dominick D. LaTorre, maintenance foreman; Edward J. Scully, vitreous enamel resistor department foreman, and Ralph V. Hayes, molded bobbin resistor department foreman.

Sprague Plant Here Grows Steadily

Remodeling of old loom shed proceeds in steady Sprague expansion program. The plant occupies buildings which formerly housed the Scranton Lace Company.

Sprague Electric Gives Jobs To 100 at Its Local Factory

More than 100 Kingston and Ulster county residents are employed in the Kingston Division of Sprague Electric Company, 165-183 Cornell street, manufacturers of various types of electrical resistors, The Freeman learned during a recent tour of the plant.

According to Edward C. Craig, newly appointed plant manager, it is anticipated that approximately 350 men and women may eventually be employed in the local factory which was opened in December, 1951, following purchase of the buildings from the Scranton Lace Company.

Since the local plant was established progress has been swift, despite a number of alterations which had to be made to accommodate new techniques and machinery. Gradual expansion has brought the plant into the position of one of the city's leading industrial organizations.

The Sprague Electric Company, one of the foremost manufacturers of electrical component parts, with main offices at North Adams, Mass., was first organized in 1926 by Robert C. Sprague, present chairman of the board of directors, developing out of his experimentation with tone control for radio sets.

By 1930 the company had grown sufficiently to acquire new quarters in North Adams where today it occupies several large groups of buildings and employes more than 3,000 people.

Electrical resistors made by the local plant are found in many types of electrical equipment, such as the military plane, and require the most perfect workmanship. A careful check of all resistors is made at the local plant to insure perfect performance under all conditions of stress.

Manufactures Condensers

Sprague is one of the largest manufacturers of electrical condensers, commonly known as capacitors, and the company makes Ceroc (U. S. Trademark Reg.) which is a unique type of high temperature ceramic-coated magnet wire for use in electrical equipment such as motors and generators. They also manufacture a powerful miniature battery especially designed for use in hearing aids.

Other types of components made by Sprague include resistors, pulse networks and noise suppression filters.

Products made by Sprague may be found in many types of equipment such as radios, TV sets, refrigerators, washing machines, food mixers, vacuum cleaners, telephones, in many parts of automobiles, electrical razors, X-ray machines, airplanes, calculating machines and in many varieties of military equipment.

New Plants Established

Expansion of the number of products and the scale of production created the need for new facilities and the company established plants in Nashu, N. H., Barre and Bennington, Vt., Milwaukee, Wis., Culver City, Calif., and at Saugerties. Plans are now being made to open a plant in one of the southern states.

Many of the local supervisory staff belong to the Industrial Management Club of Kingston and two have accepted official positions in that organization. The company sponsors the Dodgers in Kingston's Little League Baseball.

Employes may take advantage of a well-formulated personnel program including group insurance, bonus plan and vacations.

In addition to Craig, the following are in charge of various plant activities and departments: David C. Cates, personnel manager; Fred R. Powers, superintendent of resistor production departments; Frank L. Donohue, chief design engineer; Wayne E. Wright, superintendent of the maintenance department and coordinator of borocarbon and other projects; John B. Dunphy, process engineer; Hollis E. Harvey, acting office manager; Dominick D. LaTorre, maintenance foreman; Edward J. Scully, vitreous enamel resistor department foreman, and Ralph V. Hayes, molded bobbin resistor department foreman.

Cashin Revue Draws Large Audience to Opening Performance

The first of two performances of the Stars of Tomorrow in An Invitation to the Dance revue staged by the Cashin School of Dancing played to a jammed-pack Broadway Theatre audience Wednesday night.

With 235 students in the big cast, the 23rd annual dance recital was well received by the big crowd during the many scenes of toe, tap dancing, singing and acrobatic numbers.

Another performance is scheduled tonight at the Broadway starting at 7:40 o'clock.

Lavish costumes highlighted this year's presentation. From the opening scene when Majorette Juanita Crantek helped introduce the Military Drill and Tap, there was a continuous parade of colorful and spectacular costumes in the form of young and toddler performers.

Throughout the performance vocals were rendered by Shelia Langley, Patricia Cardinale, Buddy Carpinelli, Brian Feeney, Frank Cardinale and Charles Tiano.

Little Tots Draw Raves

One of the most impressive scenes was the Easter train theme, complete with bunny rabbits garbed in colorful orchid, pink and yellow and checkered costumes.

As usual, of course, the little children brought the house down whenever they appeared on stage.

The Eight Waltzing Cats also proved popular with the audience with their acrobatic dance routine being well received.

Another scene deserving particular mention was the Flower Garden with vocals by Patricia Cardinale and Charles Tiano. Youngsters in full dress and top hats and young girls with parasols completely overwhelmed the audience.

Ballet Numbers Good

Throughout the performance several ballet numbers were presented with the students displaying good poise, ability and training while the various tap and toe dancers exhibited fine precision during their respective presentations.

Pupils in the Can-Can number also showed outstanding training. Their presentation was all the more effective when the theatre lights were dimmed showing off to full effectiveness their fluorscent costumes.

The entire production was under the direction of Helen Cashin Davitt, who appeared on stage with her pupils during the grand finale. Miss Hazel Roberts was in charge of the baton instruction.

Music for the revue was presented by Jules Tellier and his orchestra while Letha Gedney, studio accompanist, was at the piano.

Costumes for the show were executed by the Mmes. Floyd Rhoades, Emil Himmelsbach, Ellis Saulpaugh, Robert Kelly, Charles Rion, William Reilly, George Spoonhauer, Viola Sapp and mothers of the pupils; accessories by Mrs. Ellis Saulpaugh and Mrs. John Wolvin and draperies by Frank Stevens, New York.

14 Attend Luncheon Of Newcomer's Club

Fourteen members of the Newcomer's Club attended the final luncheon party of the season Tuesday, June 2, at Leherb's Restaurant.

Mrs. Frank Donohue, president, expressed her appreciation to officers and members for their cooperation and hard work during the year and her hope that the club would continue to expand its "get acquainted" program in the fall.

Mrs. Richard Stillings, recording secretary, presented a resume of the club's activities during its first year.

There was a general discussion of prospective programs for next year, including a lecture on interior decorating, a film program, a book review and many others, plus occasional card parties.

The club has extended an invitation to any interested "oldcomers" or newcomers to the Kingston area to attend its first fall meeting on September 22.

The table was decorated with a centerpiece of multi-colored iris arranged by Mrs. Stillings. Individual rose corsages made by Mrs. Fallerman and Mrs. Donohue were given to each person attending.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People, etc.)

ALMOST ALWAYS SOMETHING TO PRAISE

A question often asked is: "How can one be polite and yet be truthful? A friend of mine recently had a portrait painted of herself and has it hanging in the living room. She evidently is quite pleased with it and expects everyone else to be equally enthusiastic. I didn't like it at all and was hard pressed to know what to say."

You generally can find something to praise — the color of her dress, the outline of her face, the loveliness of her expression, etc.

Returning A Kindness

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine offered me the use of several lovely maternity dresses, which I gratefully accepted. I will soon be ready to return them and would like to show my appreciation by sending a present. Would a personal item be more appropriate than one for her house, and would it be permissible for my husband to return the dresses and present the gift? I doubt that I'll be able to visit her for quite awhile and dislike to delay returning them.

Answer: Send no gift with the dresses. Wait until you are up and about and can yourself find something that you think she will like—either for herself or for her house.

Gift to Friend's Maid

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for a guest to give a small gift to a maid in a house where he dines fairly regularly? My visits necessitate her staying several hours longer than usual, and while she is paid by my hostess for that time, I feel it would not be completely amiss to somehow show my appreciation. If you consider the idea correct, what sort of present would you suggest?

Answer: I would suggest that you give her "greenback" clipped in a suitable thank-you card bought at your stationers.

An afternoon tea is the most popular as well as the simplest expression of hospitality. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-27 includes full details for preparing and serving tea. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Miss Reuss Is Wed To Roger L. Winne

Harriet Reuss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reuss of Boiceville, and Pvt. Roger L. Winne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Winne, Sr., of Mt. Tremper, were married Sunday, May 10, at the Shokan Reformed Church with the Rev. Richard Coons performing the ceremony.

The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schuster of Saugerties, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

A small reception was held at the home of the groom after which the couple departed for Camp Dix, N. J., where Pvt. Winne has been stationed for the past four months. He will report to Camp Kilmer June 5 for duty in Germany. The bride will make her home with her mother until his return.

Cashin Revue Draws Large Audience to Opening Performance

The first of two performances of the Stars of Tomorrow in An Invitation to the Dance revue staged by the Cashin School of Dancing played to a jammed-pack Broadway Theatre audience Wednesday night.

With 235 students in the big cast, the 23rd annual dance recital was well received by the big crowd during the many scenes of toe, tap dancing, singing and acrobatic numbers.

Another performance is scheduled tonight at the Broadway starting at 7:40 o'clock.

Lavish costumes highlighted this year's presentation. From the opening scene when Majorette Juanita Crantek helped introduce the Military Drill and Tap, there was a continuous parade of colorful and spectacular costumes in the form of young and toddler performers.

Throughout the performance vocals were rendered by Shelia Langley, Patricia Cardinale, Buddy Carpinelli, Brian Feeney, Frank Cardinale and Charles Tiano.

Little Tots Draw Raves

One of the most impressive scenes was the Easter train theme, complete with bunny rabbits garbed in colorful orchid, pink and yellow and checkered costumes.

As usual, of course, the little children brought the house down whenever they appeared on stage.

The Eight Waltzing Cats also proved popular with the audience with their acrobatic dance routine being well received.

Another scene deserving particular mention was the Flower Garden with vocals by Patricia Cardinale and Charles Tiano. Youngsters in full dress and top hats and young girls with parasols completely overwhelmed the audience.

Ballet Numbers Good

Throughout the performance several ballet numbers were presented with the students displaying good poise, ability and training while the various tap and toe dancers exhibited fine precision during their respective presentations.

Pupils in the Can-Can number also showed outstanding training. Their presentation was all the more effective when the theatre lights were dimmed showing off to full effectiveness their fluorscent costumes.

The entire production was under the direction of Helen Cashin Davitt, who appeared on stage with her pupils during the grand finale. Miss Hazel Roberts was in charge of the baton instruction.

Music for the revue was presented by Jules Tellier and his orchestra while Letha Gedney, studio accompanist, was at the piano.

Costumes for the show were executed by the Mmes. Floyd Rhoades, Emil Himmelsbach, Ellis Saulpaugh, Robert Kelly, Charles Rion, William Reilly, George Spoonhauer, Viola Sapp and mothers of the pupils; accessories by Mrs. Ellis Saulpaugh and Mrs. John Wolvin and draperies by Frank Stevens, New York.

14 Attend Luncheon Of Newcomer's Club

Fourteen members of the Newcomer's Club attended the final luncheon party of the season Tuesday, June 2, at Leherb's Restaurant.

Mrs. Frank Donohue, president, expressed her appreciation to officers and members for their cooperation and hard work during the year and her hope that the club would continue to expand its "get acquainted" program in the fall.

Mrs. Richard Stillings, recording secretary, presented a resume of the club's activities during its first year.

There was a general discussion of prospective programs for next year, including a lecture on interior decorating, a film program, a book review and many others, plus occasional card parties.

The club has extended an invitation to any interested "oldcomers" or newcomers to the Kingston area to attend its first fall meeting on September 22.

The table was decorated with a centerpiece of multi-colored iris arranged by Mrs. Stillings. Individual rose corsages made by Mrs. Fallerman and Mrs. Donohue were given to each person attending.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People, etc.)

ALMOST ALWAYS SOMETHING TO PRAISE

A question often asked is: "How can one be polite and yet be truthful? A friend of mine recently had a portrait painted of herself and has it hanging in the living room. She evidently is quite pleased with it and expects everyone else to be equally enthusiastic. I didn't like it at all and was hard pressed to know what to say."

You generally can find something to praise — the color of her dress, the outline of her face, the loveliness of her expression, etc.

Returning A Kindness

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine offered me the use of several lovely maternity dresses, which I gratefully accepted. I will soon be ready to return them and would like to show my appreciation by sending a present. Would a personal item be more appropriate than one for her house, and would it be permissible for my husband to return the dresses and present the gift? I doubt that I'll be able to visit her for quite awhile and dislike to delay returning them.

Answer: Send no gift with the dresses. Wait until you are up and about and can yourself find something that you think she will like—either for herself or for her house.

Gift to Friend's Maid

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for a guest to give a small gift to a maid in a house where he dines fairly regularly? My visits necessitate her staying several hours longer than usual, and while she is paid by my hostess for that time, I feel it would not be completely amiss to somehow show my appreciation. If you consider the idea correct, what sort of present would you suggest?

Answer: I would suggest that you give her "greenback" clipped in a suitable thank-you card bought at your stationers.

An afternoon tea is the most popular as well as the simplest expression of hospitality. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-27 includes full details for preparing and serving tea. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

A small reception was held at the home of the groom after which the couple departed for Camp Dix, N. J., where Pvt. Winne has been stationed for the past four months. He will report to Camp Kilmer June 5 for duty in Germany. The bride will make her home with her mother until his return.

Rose Days Are Set For Cerebral Palsy

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today proclaimed June 5 and 6 as Cerebral Palsy Rose Days and asked the public for its "financial support to the best of its ability in order to help those who cannot help themselves."

The proclamation noted that persons afflicted with cerebral palsy can be aided through proper diagnosis, treatment and education.

The Ulster County Chapter of Cerebral Palsy needs funds for research and maintenance of the cerebral palsy clinic in Kingston and in order to promote and aid those afflicted with this handicap, it is essential that sufficient funds be raised by public subscription.

The clinic has aided many Ulster county residents afflicted with the handicap.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

London, June 4 (AP)—Coronation memories:

British wives often have a feeling of envy for the freedom American women enjoy and the power they have in the home.

Here the Englishman's house is not only his castle—he is pretty much the king in it. He has the big say, if any partner in the marriage does, particularly in the spending of money.

Naturally, then, wives here like any step leading toward more feminine authority, and they aren't unhappy at all to have a queen instead of a king reigning over the land. They'd like to put the same system into their own households.

One of Most Happy Moments

Thus, perhaps one of the most cherful moments of symbolism in the coronation ceremony to many a British housewife was the act of homage paid to his wife, the queen, by the Duke of Edinburgh.

Kneeling at her feet, the handsome duke spoke his ritual:

"I, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, do become your liege man of life and limb, and of earthly worship; and faith and truth I will bear unto you, to live and die, against all manner of folks."

Many a wife here must have been daydreaming of how nice to be in the Queen's position at that moment. One middle-aged housewife, after viewing the scene on television, turned around with a look of utter happiness on her face and said:

"At last we're coming into our own!"

The beginning of Queen Elizabeth's reign may be the beginning of the end of the long rule of 'erbert, the 'ard-'earted 'usband.

Courage, Wry Humor

No one can help admiring the British gift for courage and wry good humor in a test of fortitude. It was shown strikingly by thousands who stood or slept on the pavement through shine and showers for 24 to 48 hours to watch their queen ride by.

But what surprised me was the number of parents who took their children through the same pneumonia-risking ordeal, children too small to understand the meaning of the event. There were hundreds.

I watched one tot of four — the same age as the queen's own son —who had waited with his parents nearly 33 hours on a curb for the queen and her troops to come past. He was in torture for hours, the torture of a child whose tired body cried out for sleep.

Thought for Animals

Meanwhile two interesting announcements came over the loud speaker:

"The RSPCA (Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) advises not to bring animals into the coronation crowds. Those coming into London are reminded to be sure to leave plenty of food and water for their pets at home and provide for their exercise.

"Before you light your coronation bonfires be careful to see that no birds have built their nests in them, as they have been up for a long time."

There was no warning at all about not bringing toddling children or infants in arms to the long coronation watch.

What happened to the little boy on the curb? All the queen's horses and all the queen's men couldn't keep him awake. He fell asleep on his mother's shoulder. When the queen's royal gold coach rolled by, the mother roused her son.

But he only glanced at it, and then threw his small arms around her neck and sank into his dreamland, perhaps a dreamland where little boys are kings and don't have to sit on a curb a day, a night and half a day again to see a parade and a queen — even one so fair as Elizabeth II.

Manor House Is Bought as Relic

New York, June 4 (AP) — The 288-year-old Van Cortlandt manor house at Croton-on-Hudson, where Revolutionary leaders were entertained, has been bought by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to be preserved as a historic landmark.

During Revolutionary days, Washington, Franklin and Lafayette often were guests there.

In purchasing the house and five-and-a-half acre site, Rockefeller said yesterday he was not ready to disclose exact plans for it, but it would be preserved, and not used for commercial purposes.

It was originally built in 1665 as a fortress and refuge from Indians.

In 1697 when the manor of Cortlandt, including most of what is now Westchester county, was established, the house became the residence of the Van Cortlandt family, and remained so until recent years.

After Miss Anne Stevenson Van Cortlandt died in 1940, the house was sold. Rockefeller bought it from Max Blitzer, of Pinesbridge Farm, near Ossining. The price was not stated.

WHEREAS, a majority of the duly qualified voters of Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, at a special district meeting duly called, held and conducted on October 9, 1952, approved a proposition authorizing the construction of an addition to the present school building in said School District at a total estimated cost of not exceeding $140,000, and the raising of such sum by the levy of a tax in annual installments; and

WHEREAS, it is now desired to provide for the issuance and sale of bonds for the aforesaid object or purpose; NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, by the Board of Trustees of Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. In accordance with the aforesaid proposition, the construction of an addition to the present school building, including incidental reconstruction of the existing school building, in Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, is hereby authorized at a total estimated cost of $140,000.

Section 2. The plan of financing such object or purpose is by the issuance of $140,000 serial bonds of said School District, hereinafter authorized.

Section 3. For the purpose of paying the cost of the aforesaid object or purpose, there are hereby authorized to be issued $140,000 serial bonds of said School District. Such bonds, each to be designated substantially SCHOOL (SERIAL) BOND, 1953, shall be dated July 1, 1953, in the denomination of $1,000 each, numbered from 1 to 140, both inclusive, maturing in numerical order in the amount of $7,000 on January 1 in each of the years 1955 to 1974, both inclusive, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually January 1 and July 1. Such bonds shall be in bearer coupon form with the privilege of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest, and shall be payable as to both principal and interest in lawful money of the United States of America at the Huguenot National Bank in New Paltz, New York, which by contract is the paying agent of the issuer. Such bonds shall be signed in the name of said School District by the Chairman of its Board of Trustees and by its School District Treasurer, sealed with its corporate seal, attested by its School District Clerk, and the interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of said Chairman.

Section 5. It is hereby determined, pursuant to subdivision 12 (c) of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, the probable useful life of the aforesaid addition is not dependent upon the useful life of the existing building to which it is to be attached and that subdivision 11 (a) (2) of said paragraph and section applies thereto, and that the period of probable usefulness thereof is thirty years, computed from July 1, 1953, there being no bond anticipation notes issued or to be issued prior thereto.

Section 6. The faith and credit of said Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same respectively become due and payable. An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds becoming due and payable in such year. There shall annually be levied on all the taxable real property within said School District a tax sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same become due and payable.

Section 7. The powers and duties of advertising such bonds for sale, conducting the sale and awarding the bonds are hereby delegated to the School District Clerk, who shall advertise such bonds for sale, conduct the sale and award the bonds in such manner as he shall deem best for the interests of said School District, provided, however, that in the exercise of these delegated powers, he shall comply fully with the provisions of the Local Finance Law and any order or rule of the State Comptroller applicable to the sale of municipal bonds. The receipt of the Treasurer of said School District shall be a full acquittance to the purchaser of such bonds, who shall not be obliged to see to the application of the purchase money.

Section 8. The validity of such bonds may be contested only if:

1) Such bonds are authorized for an object or purpose for which said School District is not authorized to expend money, or

and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

3) Such bonds are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 9. This resolution, which takes effect immediately, shall be published in full in The Kingston Daily Freeman, together with a Clerk's certificate in substantial conformity with Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

London, June 4 (AP)—Coronation memories:

British wives often have a feeling of envy for the freedom American women enjoy and the power they have in the home.

Here the Englishman's house is not only his castle—he is pretty much the king in it. He has the big say, if any partner in the marriage does, particularly in the spending of money.

Naturally, then, wives here like any step leading toward more feminine authority, and they aren't unhappy at all to have a queen instead of a king reigning over the land. They'd like to put the same system into their own households.

One of Most Happy Moments

Thus, perhaps one of the most cherful moments of symbolism in the coronation ceremony to many a British housewife was the act of homage paid to his wife, the queen, by the Duke of Edinburgh.

Kneeling at her feet, the handsome duke spoke his ritual:

"I, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, do become your liege man of life and limb, and of earthly worship; and faith and truth I will bear unto you, to live and die, against all manner of folks."

Many a wife here must have been daydreaming of how nice to be in the Queen's position at that moment. One middle-aged housewife, after viewing the scene on television, turned around with a look of utter happiness on her face and said:

"At last we're coming into our own!"

The beginning of Queen Elizabeth's reign may be the beginning of the end of the long rule of 'erbert, the 'ard-'earted 'usband.

Courage, Wry Humor

No one can help admiring the British gift for courage and wry good humor in a test of fortitude. It was shown strikingly by thousands who stood or slept on the pavement through shine and showers for 24 to 48 hours to watch their queen ride by.

But what surprised me was the number of parents who took their children through the same pneumonia-risking ordeal, children too small to understand the meaning of the event. There were hundreds.

I watched one tot of four — the same age as the queen's own son —who had waited with his parents nearly 33 hours on a curb for the queen and her troops to come past. He was in torture for hours, the torture of a child whose tired body cried out for sleep.

Thought for Animals

Meanwhile two interesting announcements came over the loud speaker:

"The RSPCA (Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) advises not to bring animals into the coronation crowds. Those coming into London are reminded to be sure to leave plenty of food and water for their pets at home and provide for their exercise.

"Before you light your coronation bonfires be careful to see that no birds have built their nests in them, as they have been up for a long time."

There was no warning at all about not bringing toddling children or infants in arms to the long coronation watch.

What happened to the little boy on the curb? All the queen's horses and all the queen's men couldn't keep him awake. He fell asleep on his mother's shoulder. When the queen's royal gold coach rolled by, the mother roused her son.

But he only glanced at it, and then threw his small arms around her neck and sank into his dreamland, perhaps a dreamland where little boys are kings and don't have to sit on a curb a day, a night and half a day again to see a parade and a queen — even one so fair as Elizabeth II.

Manor House Is Bought as Relic

New York, June 4 (AP) — The 288-year-old Van Cortlandt manor house at Croton-on-Hudson, where Revolutionary leaders were entertained, has been bought by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to be preserved as a historic landmark.

During Revolutionary days, Washington, Franklin and Lafayette often were guests there.

In purchasing the house and five-and-a-half acre site, Rockefeller said yesterday he was not ready to disclose exact plans for it, but it would be preserved, and not used for commercial purposes.

It was originally built in 1665 as a fortress and refuge from Indians.

In 1697 when the manor of Cortlandt, including most of what is now Westchester county, was established, the house became the residence of the Van Cortlandt family, and remained so until recent years.

After Miss Anne Stevenson Van Cortlandt died in 1940, the house was sold. Rockefeller bought it from Max Blitzer, of Pinesbridge Farm, near Ossining. The price was not stated.

BOND RESOLUTION
DATED JUNE 3, 1953

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CONSTRUCTION OF AN ADDITION TO THE PRESENT SCHOOL BUILDING IN COMMON SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 2 OF THE TOWN OF ROSENDALE, ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK, AT A TOTAL ESTIMATED COST OF $140,000, AND PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF $140,000 SERIAL BONDS OF SAID SCHOOL DISTRICT TO PAY THE COST THEREOF.

WHEREAS, a majority of the duly qualified voters of Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, at a special district meeting duly called, held and conducted on October 9, 1952, approved a proposition authorizing the construction of an addition to the present school building in said School District at a total estimated cost of not exceeding $140,000, and the raising of such sum by the levy of a tax in annual installments; and

WHEREAS, it is now desired to provide for the issuance and sale of bonds for the aforesaid object or purpose; NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, by the Board of Trustees of Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. In accordance with the aforesaid proposition, the construction of an addition to the present school building, including incidental reconstruction of the existing school building, in Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, is hereby authorized at a total estimated cost of $140,000.

Section 2. The plan of financing such object or purpose is by the issuance of $140,000 serial bonds of said School District, hereinafter authorized.

Section 3. For the purpose of paying the cost of the aforesaid object or purpose, there are hereby authorized to be issued $140,000 serial bonds of said School District. Such bonds, each to be designated substantially SCHOOL (SERIAL) BOND, 1953, shall be dated July 1, 1953, in the denomination of $1,000 each, numbered from 1 to 140, both inclusive, maturing in numerical order in the amount of $7,000 on January 1 in each of the years 1955 to 1974, both inclusive, and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually January 1 and July 1. Such bonds shall be in bearer coupon form with the privilege of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest, and shall be payable as to both principal and interest in lawful money of the United States of America at the Huguenot National Bank in New Paltz, New York, which by contract is the paying agent of the issuer. Such bonds shall be signed in the name of said School District by the Chairman of its Board of Trustees and by its School District Treasurer, sealed with its corporate seal, attested by its School District Clerk, and the interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of said Chairman.

Section 5. It is hereby determined, pursuant to subdivision 12 (c) of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, the probable useful life of the aforesaid addition is not dependent upon the useful life of the existing building to which it is to be attached and that subdivision 11 (a) (2) of said paragraph and section applies thereto, and that the period of probable usefulness thereof is thirty years, computed from July 1, 1953, there being no bond anticipation notes issued or to be issued prior thereto.

Section 6. The faith and credit of said Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same respectively become due and payable. An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds becoming due and payable in such year. There shall annually be levied on all the taxable real property within said School District a tax sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same become due and payable.

Section 7. The powers and duties of advertising such bonds for sale, conducting the sale and awarding the bonds are hereby delegated to the School District Clerk, who shall advertise such bonds for sale, conduct the sale and award the bonds in such manner as he shall deem best for the interests of said School District, provided, however, that in the exercise of these delegated powers, he shall comply fully with the provisions of the Local Finance Law and any order or rule of the State Comptroller applicable to the sale of municipal bonds. The receipt of the Treasurer of said School District shall be a full acquittance to the purchaser of such bonds, who shall not be obliged to see to the application of the purchase money.

Section 8. The validity of such bonds may be contested only if:

1) Such bonds are authorized for an object or purpose for which said School District is not authorized to expend money, or

and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

3) Such bonds are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 9. This resolution, which takes effect immediately, shall be published in full in The Kingston Daily Freeman, together with a Clerk's certificate in substantial conformity with Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

Hinkley Blanks Doblers, 2-0; Errors Ruin Magley's Mound Bid

Unearned Markers Decide Outcome In Late Innings

Both Hurlers Give Up Five Hits in Tilt

Bruce Hinkley added another niche to his credit in his determined bid to gain the earned run title of the City Baseball League Wednesday night when he fired a 2 to 0 victory for Jones Dairy over the Doblers at Athletic Field.

Hinkley again pitched a strong game, giving up only five hits. The strong-armed righthander has not allowed an earned run in 14 1/3 innings and both of Jones Dairy wins have been credited to his air-tight mound work.

Hinkley and George Magley were locked in a scoreless duel for five innings last night before the Dairymen broke up the deadlock with a single run in the sixth and added another in the seventh to squeak through with the win.

For Magley on the other hand, it was a tough decision to drop.

The bespectaled hurler also permitted five scattered hits and except for some loose fielding behind him he might have come up with the victory. Both of the Dairymen's runs were unearned.

The victory gave Jones Dairy an even split in four games to date while the loss was Doblers' second in two outings.

Unearned Runs Decide

As it turned out, Magley was the tough victim of two errors which led to his downfall.

After retiring his opposing pitcher, Magley should have had the second out when Daisy Schatzel reached first on Barringer's error after a grounder to short. Gorsline worked Magley for a pass. Tommy Carlino's single to center pushed across Schatzel with the run. A passed ball by Billy Glaser sent Gorsline to third and Carlino to second. Magley issued an intentional pass to Tommy Maines to load the sacks and the strategy worked as Nippy Jones fanned and Mauro was retired on a tap to the box.

Whitaker Cracks Double

A double by R. Whitaker after Benjamin was retired in the seventh set up Jones Dairy second run. Whitaker took third on an infield out and scored when Schatzel hit to short. Whitaker scampered home as the shortstop's throw pulled Barringer off first for an error.

Wants Garden Shot

St. Louis, June 4 (AP) — Holly Mims, fresh and almost unmarked after his unanimous decision over Jesse Turner of St. Louis here last night, feels his victory entitles him to a shot at one of the top-ranking middleweights in Madison Square Garden. Mims, fighting out of Washington, D. C., mentioned two fighters — Paddy Young and Joey Gardello—but said he'd take on any of the top 10 in his division. Using a left jab crossed with a powerful right hand, Mims sent jolting Jesse to the deck for a mandatory eight count in the sixth round.

18-2 Setback Biggest In Either Circuit

(By The Associated Press)

If the rest of the American League doesn't run for cover now it won't be the fault of the New York Yankees.

The other seven clubs have been warned—in the boldest possible terms—that the Yanks are dead serious about winning their fifth straight pennant and woe unto anyone brash enough to oppose them.

This probably isn't the best team ever to wear the famous Yankee livery but it towers over its current opposition to such an extent that even the most ardent Yankee haters—and there are plenty of them around the circuit—would be hard put at the moment to pick another club with a real solid chance of staying on even terms with the New Yorkers.

The doubters can examine the remains of the Chicago White Sox.

The Sox and Cleveland were the pre-season choices to stop the Yankees if the Yankees could be stopped. The Indians folded at the mere sight of the Bronx Bombers but the White Sox, after losing their first encounter, bounced back to win four in a row from the New Yorkers—a serious mistake.

Vows were vowed, sights were set and when the champs roared into the windy city Tuesday for a three game series they were ready to make amends. They did.

Tuesday night they stopped the Sox, 4-3. Yesterday they trampled all over them, 18-2, in the biggest rout of the season in either league. Four Chicago pitchers were mauled for 19 hits and the New Yorkers benefited from nine bases on balls, a hit batter and three White Sox errors.

Sixth in Row

Riding a six game winning streak and holding a fat 5½-game edge over the runner-up Indians, the Yankees wind up their business in Chicago today and move on to St. Louis for four games. Detroit for three and Cleveland for four. Their combined record against the three clubs so far this season is 8-1.

The Indians slipped another full notch back last night when Boston came up with three runs in the top of the ninth for a 4-3 decision.

The Philadelphia Athletics whipped the hapless Detroit Tigers, 10-7, dropping the Tigers 20 games behind New York. Washington beat St. Louis, 3-2, in 10 innings in the other American League game.

Milwaukee made it two straight over Brooklyn on the Dodgers' home grounds, 14-9, after trailing 7-2 at the end of three innings. The victory stretched the Braves' National League lead to a game and a half.

Phils, Cards Divide

The Phillies split a twilight-night doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning the second game, 6-5, and losing the opener, 5-3. The New York Giants trounced Cincinnati, 11-3, and Pittsburgh moved into sixth place with a 1-0 decision over Chicago.

The Red Sox' triumph over Cleveland broke their four game losing streak. Trailing by two at the start of the ninth Boston put together a pair of singles with a double by George Kell for one run and picked up two more on Sam White's single.

The Milwaukee-Brooklyn melee saw 11 pitchers in action with the hitters treating almost all of them like batting practice tossers.

Castoffs Hurt Again

Andy Pafko and Jim Pendleton, both peddled by Brooklyn during the winter because the Dodgers had no use for them, homered as Milwaukee scored five runs in the eighth.

The Cardinals managed only six hits off Curt Simmons and two successors in the first game at Philadelphia but the blows included home runs by Steve Bilko and Rip Repulski plus a triple by Repulski and a double by Del Rice. In the nightcap Connie Ryan single home Tommy Glaviano with the winning run in the eighth after Glaviano had tripled.

Warren Hacker, most everybody's nomination for the hard-luck pitcher of the '53 campaign, lost his eighth straight at Pittsburgh. He gave up five hits to seven by Paul LaPalme of the Pirates but Pittsburgh got the only run as Pete Castiglione singled home Ralph Kiner in the fourth.

Kiner on Edge

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—Ralph Kiner, home run hitting outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was on edge today over reports he may be traded to the Chicago Cubs. The ordinarily quiet Kiner declared: "I don't know what's going to happen, I just don't know." Kiner made his comment after Branch Rickey, Pirate general manager, and Wid Mathews, Cub personnel director, had conferred twice—and scheduled another meeting today. Mathews has had a standing offer to give the Pirates $200,000 for Kiner.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Paul LaPalme, Pittsburgh Pirates, pitched the Pirates into sixth place with a 1-0 seven-hit shutout over Chicago.

Batting—Gus Zernial, Philadelphia Athletics, hit two home runs and drove in half of the A's tallies in a 10-7 triumph over Detroit.

But Dressen, Robby Get Signals Mixed

Brooklyn, June 4 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers had just absorbed their second straight licking at the hands of the Milwaukee Braves. They had surrendered first place to Charlie Grimm's amazing upstarts. But strangely enough, the Brooks had little respect for their conquerors.

"If they are the club we have to beat for the pennant," snorted Jackie Robinson, "I am not worried the least bit. Don't misunderstand me. If we don't win it, I like nothing better than to see Milwaukee do it. It would be a boom for baseball. But they won't do it. They just haven't got enough."

That seemed to be the general attitude of the defending champions as they discussed the rise of the surprising Braves in the clubhouse after yesterday's 14-9 loss to Milwaukee.

Cholly Not Convinced

"They haven't convinced me," scoffed Charlie Dressen, the Dodger manager. "Sure, they got some power, but it's an old club. Let's wait until the hot weather comes around. Then we will see how good they really are.

"That kid on third (Eddie Mathews) is a pretty good hitter, but he can be pitched to." Mathews hit a home run and single and drove in three runs yesterday.

"They are not bad down the middle," Dressen continued. "That shortstop (Johnny Logan) and second baseman (Jack Dittmer) are improved over last year. That centerfielder (Rookie Billy Bruton) gives the club some speed. But we know how to pitch to him. (Bruton had a single, double and triple and scored four runs yesterday).

"Their pitching isn't so hot. We've played them six games and we've knocked out their starting pitcher each time. They used five today didn't they? None of them was any good."

Robinson, who hadn't heard Dressen comment, spoke glowingly of the Braves' moundcrop.

Praise Mound Staff

"Their chief strength is their pitching," Robinson said. "They got veteran starters and the addition of kids like Antonelli, Buhl, and Liddle gives them pitching depth.

"But they have too many older fellows and their defense is not too strong. I know they beat us twice in a row but I don't think they look good. We just looked worse."

After the players had departed, Dressen stood in front of the bathroom mirror outside his office and talked as he shaved.

"Yeah I still don't think they are much. Sure they beat us. But we should have won both games. All we needed was a fly ball in each game and we would have won. A runner on third base and one out and we can't deliver that fly ball. I've got to do something about it."

Fights Last Night

St. Louis—Holly Mims, 155, Washington, D. C., outpointed Jesse Turner, 155½, St. Louis, 10.

Hard Luck Pitcher

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—If he keeps up his present pace, Warren Hacker of the Chicago Cubs is certain to be tabbed "the hard luck pitcher of 1953." Hacker, who dropped a 1-0 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates last night has a 1-9 record. But the Cubs were shut out in five of the games he's started. Hacker's been defeated by scores of 1-0 (twice), 2-0 (twice), 3-0, 4-3 and 5-4.

Friend Solves Problem

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' second base problem appeared solved today — for a while anyway. Owen Friend, the incumbent second sacker, has collected five hits in his last two games, including a pair of home runs. The Bengals also have used Gerry Priddy and Johnny Pesky at that position this year.

Hinkley Blanks Doblers, 2-0; Errors Ruin Magley's Mound Bid

Unearned Markers Decide Outcome In Late Innings

Both Hurlers Give Up Five Hits in Tilt

Bruce Hinkley added another niche to his credit in his determined bid to gain the earned run title of the City Baseball League Wednesday night when he fired a 2 to 0 victory for Jones Dairy over the Doblers at Athletic Field.

Hinkley again pitched a strong game, giving up only five hits. The strong-armed righthander has not allowed an earned run in 14 1/3 innings and both of Jones Dairy wins have been credited to his air-tight mound work.

Hinkley and George Magley were locked in a scoreless duel for five innings last night before the Dairymen broke up the deadlock with a single run in the sixth and added another in the seventh to squeak through with the win.

For Magley on the other hand, it was a tough decision to drop.

The bespectaled hurler also permitted five scattered hits and except for some loose fielding behind him he might have come up with the victory. Both of the Dairymen's runs were unearned.

The victory gave Jones Dairy an even split in four games to date while the loss was Doblers' second in two outings.

Unearned Runs Decide

As it turned out, Magley was the tough victim of two errors which led to his downfall.

After retiring his opposing pitcher, Magley should have had the second out when Daisy Schatzel reached first on Barringer's error after a grounder to short. Gorsline worked Magley for a pass. Tommy Carlino's single to center pushed across Schatzel with the run. A passed ball by Billy Glaser sent Gorsline to third and Carlino to second. Magley issued an intentional pass to Tommy Maines to load the sacks and the strategy worked as Nippy Jones fanned and Mauro was retired on a tap to the box.

Whitaker Cracks Double

A double by R. Whitaker after Benjamin was retired in the seventh set up Jones Dairy second run. Whitaker took third on an infield out and scored when Schatzel hit to short. Whitaker scampered home as the shortstop's throw pulled Barringer off first for an error.

Wants Garden Shot

St. Louis, June 4 (AP)—Holly Mims, fresh and almost unmarked after his unanimous decision over Jesse Turner of St. Louis here last night, feels his victory entitles him to a shot at one of the top-ranking middleweights in Madison Square Garden. Mims, fighting out of Washington, D. C., mentioned two fighters—Paddy Young and Joey Gardello—but said he'd take on any of the top 10 in his division. Using a left jab crossed with a powerful right hand, Mims sent jolting Jesse to the deck for a mandatory eight count in the sixth round.

18-2 Setback Biggest In Either Circuit

(By The Associated Press)

If the rest of the American League doesn't run for cover now it won't be the fault of the New York Yankees.

The other seven clubs have been warned—in the boldest possible terms—that the Yanks are dead serious about winning their fifth straight pennant and woe unto anyone brash enough to oppose them.

This probably isn't the best team ever to wear the famous Yankee livery but it towers over its current opposition to such an extent that even the most ardent Yankee haters—and there are plenty of them around the circuit—would be hard put at the moment to pick another club with a real solid chance of staying on even terms with the New Yorkers.

The doubters can examine the remains of the Chicago White Sox.

The Sox and Cleveland were the pre-season choices to stop the Yankees if the Yankees could be stopped. The Indians folded at the mere sight of the Bronx Bombers but the White Sox, after losing their first encounter, bounced back to win four in a row from the New Yorkers—a serious mistake.

Vows were vowed, sights were set and when the champs roared into the windy city Tuesday for a three game series they were ready to make amends. They did.

Tuesday night they stopped the Sox, 4-3. Yesterday they trampled all over them, 18-2, in the biggest rout of the season in either league. Four Chicago pitchers were mauled for 19 hits and the New Yorkers benefited from nine bases on balls, a hit batter and three White Sox errors.

Sixth in Row

Riding a six game winning streak and holding a fat 5½-game edge over the runner-up Indians, the Yankees wind up their business in Chicago today and move on to St. Louis for four games, Detroit for three and Cleveland for four. Their combined record against the three clubs so far this season is 8-1.

The Indians slipped another full notch back last night when Boston came up with three runs in the top of the ninth for a 4-3 decision.

The Philadelphia Athletics whipped the hapless Detroit Tigers, 10-7, dropping the Tigers 20 games behind New York. Washington beat St. Louis, 3-2, in 10 innings in the other American League game.

Milwaukee made it two straight over Brooklyn on the Dodgers' home grounds, 14-9, after trailing 7-2 at the end of three innings. The victory stretched the Braves' National League lead to a game and a half.

Phils, Cards Divide

The Phillies split a twilight-night doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning the second game, 6-5, and losing the opener, 5-3. The New York Giants trounced Cincinnati, 11-3, and Pittsburgh moved into sixth place with a 1-0 decision over Chicago.

The Red Sox' triumph over Cleveland broke their four game losing streak. Trailing by two at the start of the ninth Boston put together a pair of singles with a double by George Kell for one run and picked up two more on Sam White's single.

The Milwaukee-Brooklyn melee saw 11 pitchers in action with the hitters treating almost all of them like batting practice tossers.

Castoffs Hurt Again

Andy Pafko and Jim Pendleton, both peddled by Brooklyn during the winter because the Dodgers had no use for them, homered as Milwaukee scored five runs in the eighth.

The Cardinals managed only six hits off Curt Simmons and two successors in the first game at Philadelphia but the blows included home runs by Steve Bilko and Rip Repulski plus a triple by Repulski and a double by Del Rice. In the nightcap Connie Ryan single home Tommy Glaviano with the winning run in the eighth after Glaviano had tripled.

Warren Hacker, most everybody's nomination for the hard-luck pitcher of the '53 campaign, lost his eighth straight at Pittsburgh. He gave up five hits to seven by Paul LaPalme of the Pirates but Pittsburgh got the only run as Pete Castiglione singled home Ralph Kiner in the fourth.

Kiner on Edge

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—Ralph Kiner, home run hitting outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was on edge today over reports he may be traded to the Chicago Cubs. The ordinarily quiet Kiner declared: "I don't know what's going to happen, I just don't know." Kiner made his comment after Branch Rickey, Pirate general manager, and Wid Mathews, Cub personnel director, had conferred twice—and scheduled another meeting today. Mathews has had a standing offer to give the Pirates $200,000 for Kiner.

Cholly Not Convinced

"They haven't convinced me," scoffed Charlie Dressen, the Dodger manager. "Sure, they got some power, but it's an old club. Let's wait until the hot weather comes around. Then we will see how good they really are.

"That kid on third (Eddie Mathews) is a pretty good hitter, but he can be pitched to." Mathews hit a home run and single and drove in three runs yesterday.

"They are not bad down the middle," Dressen continued. "That shortstop (Johnny Logan) and second baseman (Jack Dittmer) are improved over last year. That centerfielder (Rookie Billy Bruton) gives the club some speed. But we know how to pitch to him. (Bruton had a single, double and triple and scored four runs yesterday).

"Their pitching isn't so hot. We've played them six games and we've knocked out their starting pitcher each time. They used five today didn't they? None of them was any good."

Robinson, who hadn't heard Dressen comment, spoke glowingly of the Braves' moundcrop.

Praise Mound Staff

"Their chief strength is their pitching," Robinson said. "They got veteran starters and the addition of kids like Antonelli, Buhl, and Liddle gives them pitching depth.

"But they have too many older fellows and their defense is not too strong. I know they beat us twice in a row but I don't think they look good. We just looked worse."

After the players had departed, Dressen stood in front of the bathroom mirror outside his office and talked as he shaved.

"Yeah I still don't think they are much. Sure they beat us. But we should have won both games. All we needed was a fly ball in each game and we would have won. A runner on third base and one out and we can't deliver that fly ball. I've got to do something about it."

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

St. Louis—Holly Mims, 155, Washington, D. C., outpointed Jesse Turner, 155½, St. Louis, 10.

Hard Luck Pitcher

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—If he keeps up his present pace, Warren Hacker of the Chicago Cubs is certain to be tabbed "the hard luck pitcher of 1953." Hacker, who dropped a 1-0 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates last night has a 1-9 record. But the Cubs were shut out in five of the games he's started. Hacker's been defeated by scores of 1-0 (twice), 2-0 (twice), 3-0, 4-3 and 5-4.

Friend Solves Problem

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' second base problem appeared solved today—for a while anyway. Owen Friend, the incumbent second sacker, has collected five hits in his last two games, including a pair of home runs. The Bengals also have used Gerry Priddy and Johnny Pesky at that position this year.

Kryhoski Going Well

St. Louis, June 4 (AP)—Dick Kryhoski of the St. Louis Browns, a bench-warmer when the season started, was the American League's seventh leading batter today. The 28-year-old first sacker is hitting .320 on 32 hits in an even 100 times at bat. He had one safety against the Washington Senators last night.

Wins by Length

Westbury, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Make Way, owned and driven by Jimmy Cruise, rushed to the front at the half mile and went on to win the Greatneck Pace by one length last night at Roosevelt Raceway. Reyno Worthy rallied in the stretch to nail second place, a head in front of Snap Up, in a four-horse photo. Make Way paced the mile in 2:07 and returned $8.70 for $2. The victory was the third for Make Way this year in eight starts. Prince Donna, the 6-5 favorite, broke stride at the three-eights pole and was never in contention.

It might have been poetic justice if rain had washed out the Section 9 track meet here on Memorial Day. High school authorities, not necessarily the directors of athletics, have shown an alarming tendency toward de-emphasis in recent years.

The time-honored nine-inning baseball game has been reduced to seven innings. They start between 4 and 4:30 p. m. The high school brass is reluctant to dismiss varsity athletes earlier in the afternoon. Yet these same intellectuals will schedule a track meet on Memorial Day. It doesn't add up here.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Memo to Giant fans: They can't hit what can't be caught . . . but the way to Wilhelm is through the catcher. The Giants have a great relief pitcher in Hoyt. All they need now is a relief catcher. Ken Clark is doing a nice job managing the American League Yankees in the absence of the ailing Bill Thomas. Cementon scalped the Kingston Indians in their baseball opener, 18 to 4. Maurice R. "Dick" Davenport, son of Maurice Davenport of Wiltwyck Golf Club, has been re-elected captain of the Middlebury College golf team. Davenport, a senior who is expected to be a big threat in the Father Herdegen Memorial this season, was captain of the Panthers this season and consistently topped his teammates in performance. Middlebury split in eight matches this spring. Davenport also plays guard on the varsity football squad. When Vince Martinez, the welterweight contender, visits Kingston Thursday he will be the personal guest of Joe Bruno of Glasco. Joe Louis' affiliation with the Richards Farms at Ulster Park hit all the metropolitan dailies, the UP wire and most of the New York Broadway and sports columns. However, we're going to emphasize in the future that the locale is Kingston and not Esopus. And we hope the Esopus Chamber of Commerce doesn't mind.

• Mirons Show Classic Form:

Any doubt about the top Hudson Valley match game aggregation in bowling has been removed by the Miron Lumber squad of Kingston, the 1952-53 Hudson Valley League champions. They captured the net prize in four major sweepstakes—Catskill, Pine Plains, Liberty and Middletown—and defeated two standout opponents in match tests in the same tournament. At Catskill they whipped Morrie Cramer's Albany hotshots and then trimmed the Veteran Cabs at Pine Plains. For the usual cash considerations, of course. Whatever happened to the Central Rec Major trundlers? Only three "190" shooters and Clifton Quick not among them. Dick Howard figured to win that crown because of the towering totals he clips on 5-6 and 7-8, but it's hard to understand why only three big time keglers made the "190" grade. Midway in the season, the sharpies were complaining that the Recs weren't as soft as in yesteryear and maybe they had something. Incidentally, George Robinson's final draft of Central Rec Major League averages was the finest we've seen this season.

Charlie Brodhead, who shares with many of the older baseball fans of the city a desire for a return "to the old days" theorizes that perhaps a revival of an all-local team would solve the current dilemma. He refers to the 1919 original Colonials (that date must be wrong) and submits the lineup. It was terrific to be sure. Bud Culloton, Dick Williams, Bill McAuliffe were the pitchers and the immortal Jack Robins caught. Judge Harry Schirick was manager and part time first baseman. The late Fred Stoudt was at first base. Matty Deegan, regarded by many as the finest Colonial of them all, played second. Carl "Dutch" Glaser, Artie Rice and Cy Connors completed the infield. Outfielders were Bill Schwab, the man who doubled against Burleigh Grimes, Leo Fitzgerald, a greyhound, and Joe "Kid" Moore, the steeplejack. Only two things wrong with Charlie's case. 1. There aren't enough baseball fans like him in the city. 2. And where can you find "local" players of that calibre in this era of hotrods?

Maple Lane Guernsey Heifer Breaks Record

Maple Lane Princess Theresa, bred at Maple Lane Farms, is the highest producing junior two-year-old Guernsey heifer in the world, having produced 14,665 pounds of milk in 305 days, milking three times per day during her record, it was reported to The Freeman today.

The test was supervised by Cornell University and the American Guernsey Cattle Club of Peterborough, N. H., supervisors and was milked by Martin Garvey and supervised by Thomas J. Doyle, superintendent of the farm.

During the past 30 years Maple Lane Farms has made several outstanding records, taking second place twice. The herd now numbers over 130 head producing Class A Guernsey milk.

Sammons Collects Three Hits; Schrowang Homers

The Red Sox moved into a two-way tie for first place in the American League of the Little League standings after pounding out a convincing 14 to 4 victory over the win-less Giants Wednesday night at the 156th Field Artillery LL Field.

Some long distance clouting by Tom Cragan and Frank Sammons featured the lop-sided win.

Cragan hammered a grand slam homer in the fifth inning, his second four-ply clout of the year. Sammons, the Red Sox third sacker, had a perfect night with three hits in three trips. Two of Sammons' blows were for extra bases, a triple and double.

Also hitting for the distance in the losing cause was Joe Schrowang who banged one of Charlie Boice's offerings. Schrowang collected two other safeties.

The Red Sox exploded for six runs and the ball game in the first inning and added three more in the second. Topped by Tom Cragan's HR in the fifth, the Sockers pushed five more runs across to complete the rout.

The Giants and Yankees collide tonight in the American League. The Braves and Tigers are scheduled for a National League tilt at Hasbrouck Park.

Three Cases Settled In Supreme Court

Three cases were reported in Supreme Court yesterday, one was referred to Justice William Deckelman and the May term of court was adjourned to the chambers of Justice Deckelman in Monticello.

Referred to Justice Deckelman was the case of Fuelgas Corp. against Oliver Byrne.

Announced as settled were the following. Anthony Guerriere against Rose Nappi Guerriere, charged with ejectment; Charles DeForest against Emma DeForest, action to annul a marriage, and Emma DeForest against Charles DeForest, action for judicial separation.

Demonstration Broken

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—The United Nations Command said a Korean prisoners' demonstration against an "armistice without Korean unification" was broken up today. No casualties were reported. Students Have Two Windows at C of C

The public is invited to inspect the two attractive windows at the Kingston Chamber of Commerce office in the Governor Clinton Hotel planned and arranged by the Cooperative Retailing Class of the Kingston High School, under the direction of the instructor, L. B. Connick, at the suggestion of Adrian Kaplan, president of the chamber.

One window displays the industrial, educational and historic features of the city and the other depicts the vacation and recreational attractions of Ulster county and where they are to be found.

The displays will be left in the windows for a considerable period and a spokesman for the chamber asked that public appreciation be expressed for the fine work done by the pupils of the cooperative retailing class in decorating the windows.

Demonstration Broken

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—The United Nations Command said a Korean prisoners' demonstration against an "armistice without Korean unification" was broken up today. No casualties were reported. The announcement said prisoners from four compounds at Masan on the Korean mainland demonstrated for 45 minutes. The number involved was not disclosed. The Masan camp houses North Korean non-Communist prisoners.

Students Have Two Windows at C of C

The public is invited to inspect the two attractive windows at the Kingston Chamber of Commerce office in the Governor Clinton Hotel planned and arranged by the Cooperative Retailing Class of the Kingston High School, under the direction of the instructor, L. B. Connick, at the suggestion of Adrian Kaplan, president of the chamber.

One window displays the industrial, educational and historic features of the city and the other depicts the vacation and recreational attractions of Ulster county and where they are to be found.

The displays will be left in the windows for a considerable period and a spokesman for the chamber asked that public appreciation be expressed for the fine work done by the pupils of the cooperative retailing class in decorating the windows.

Midwest, Rockies Get Storms; Rain in Miami

(By The Associated Press)

Thunderstorms and rain hit areas in the midwest and northern Rockies today but generally fair weather prevailed in most other sections.

More rain in northwestern Montana heightened the flood threat as rain-swollen streams reached flood stage. Considered most dangerous was the Sun river which empties into the Missouri at Great Falls. Many families in the area east of the Continental Divide have been forced from their homes.

Other wet spots early today were at Miami, Fla., which reported light rain, and the Great Lakes region, hit by thunderstorms and showers.

Warm weather continued in the south and northward to the southern Great Lakes region and eastward to the Atlantic coast. It was cool in New England, the northern Great Lakes area and most of the west.

Approval Expected For Thruway Bids Within Two Weeks

Plans for the Whiteport-Ohioville section of the New York State Thruway are expected to be submitted to Albany for final approval within the next two weeks, a state source said today.

Bridging of the Rondout creek and Wallkill river in the Rosendale area and several other construction and land-taking problems have held up the plans, but it is expected they will be ready for bidding within the next several weeks.

Work is progressing, meanwhile, in the Kingston area on the Sawkill-Kingston and Whiteport-Kingston strips. Concrete is expected to be poured on the former section next month, and work is under way in and near Kingston and Whiteport on the latter.

Reds Offer . . .

Duk Shin, continued his boycott, which started May 25. This was the second session he had missed.

South Korean government sources have attacked the Allied plan as "appeasement" and a "sell out."

The prisoner exchange dispute—last major barrier to an armistice—centers on what to do with 34,000 North Korean and 14,500 Chinese prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

Addition Is Made

The Communists have proposed leaving their fate to a post-armistice political conference after a period of Red explanations. The new allied plan is reported to agree to that, but adds that if the political conference fails to settle the problem, disposition of the prisoners would be left to the UN General Assembly. The Reds reportedly rejected that UN provisions on the spot, charging that the UN itself is a belligerent and should not have a final verdict of Red prisoners.

The secret meeting had been billed as a chips-down session. Allied sources indicated the latest UN proposal was final.

On May 25 the Reds took a one-week recess after receiving the allied plan and then extended the recess three more days, indicating the proposal was getting a thorough going-over in top Red circles—Peiping and possibly Moscow.

CD Radio Control Station Is Manned

Regular schedules are being maintained day and night at the Civil Defense radio control station at city hall, communications nerve center for the Kingston-Ulster county area.

Licensed amateur radio operators who have signed up to man the watches are H. W. Bartsch, John Bonse, Arthur Bonse, Charles Costa, John Heitzman, Gene Heitzman and Joseph Brownell.

Both 2 meter and 75 meter channels are manned by the local organization. There are also five mobile two-way radio units on county frequencies with a project for building portable two-way sending and receiving sets which can be carried by one person. Three of these are now in operation and have been tested between Kerhonkson and city hall.

All licensed amateurs of the city and county are urged to sign up for service with the Civil Defense radio organization at city hall.

Indiana Fights Worms

Indianapolis, June 4 (AP)—Five more Indiana counties battled hordes of army worms in riddled fields today in the worst outbreak of the pests in the state's history. Jackson, Montgomery, Wells, Henry and Miami counties in central Indiana suffered wide-spread crop damage, and Posey county in southwestern [illegible]a fought a newly-hatched [illegible] brood of the worms. Jac[illegible] county reported its clover crop already two-thirds destroyed and entire Montgomery county cornfields have been ruined.

Trip Made to Albany

Mayor Newkirk and Engineer Hallinan went to Albany to ask Tallamy not to open the section of Thruway north of Route 28 until the strip southward to Whiteport was completed. They brought pictures and other data indicating that the viaduct and narrow Esopus creek bridge would represent a traffic bottleneck even after the entire thruway is opened to traffic.

A traffic count was started in the city soon after their visit to Albany as a first study in the survey ordered by Tallamy. The counters are still clocking traffic in the city and the results of the count will be determined soon after they are removed.

To Consider Demands

It appears now that the Public Service Commission, when the problem finally reaches it, will be called upon to consider the demands of the city, state and public for some remedial action to remove the bottleneck, against whatever position is maintained by the O & W railroad and the Catskill Mountain branch of the New York Central railroad.

The two railroads now maintain a minimum of train service, and it appears that the viaduct could be eliminated without serious hazard to the public if gate or watchman service were maintained. But against this is the fact that the structure was built for public service with 50 per cent of the responsibility reverting to the railroads.

It appears again, that if it is possible to legislate the railroad out of the picture, if and when the state decides definitely that the bottleneck must go, action should be started in that direction as early as possible.
